NO. 248—SEVENTIETH YEAR

ASSESSMENT IS INCREASED BY $250,000

City's 1929 Roll Will Be Presented to Court of Revision at Meeting to Be Held on Monday

PROPERTY VALUES ARE BALANCED UP

If $2,000,000 Added to Improvements, $1,000,000 Is Exempted From Taxation

An increase of between $250,000 and $300,000 will be shown in the net assessment of land and improvements when the figures for the 1929 assessment are made public, the Court of Revision on Assessments, which sits in the city council chamber on Monday. Mr. George Kell, city assessor, announced yesterday that no figures would be made public until then.

It was learned, however, that there would be about a quarter of a million dollar increase in the net assessment as the result of the assessment that has been carried out during the past twelve months. Property values have shifted from district to district, and the city assessor's department has been balancing up the values of the various districts.

INDUSTRIES EXEMPT

Approximately $2,000,000 is the increase in assessed improvements as a result of the 1928 assessment. This is due to increased building activity. About $1,000,000 of the increase in assessed improvements is exempt from taxation. This amount includes the grain elevator at the worsted mill, which are valued at nearly $1,000,000. This places the increase in the taxable assessment on improvements at $500,000, as improvements are taxed only up to 50 per cent of their value. A decrease in the land assessment brings the net increase in the 1928 assessment to over $500,000. The net assessment for 1928 is expected to be $40,265,120. A total of 150 appeals against the city assessor have been received. Of these, Mr. Kell stated, were 10 assessments that had been received this year for the 1929 roll. The appeals will be heard by the court of revision, which will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the city council chamber. The court comprises Mayor J. Earl Penney, Aldermen William Marchant, Alderman John Harvey, Alderman H. Litchfield and Alderman John Worthington.

CAPT. BEETHAM BANQUETED ON C.P.S. EMPRESS

Officers of Canadian Pacific Association Pay Striking Tribute to Retiring Superintendent

PRESENTATION TO GUEST OF HONOR

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26.—Officers of the Canadian Pacific Association of Vancouver, paid a striking tribute to Captain Edward Beetham, R.N.R., retiring superintendent of the C.P.S. Ltd., on Wednesday evening when they banqueted him on the R.M.S. Empress of Russia, one of the Pacific fleet, and the ship originally brought from the builders in the Old Country by Captain Beetham himself.

Captain Edmund Alkman, successor to Captain Beetham in the Coast Superintendency, struck the keynote of the speeches succeeding the dinner when he spoke of the loyalty and confidence that had been engendered in all ranks of the ocean service under Captain Beetham's regime, and the hope that similar conditions would lead to equal advances under his command.

PRESENTATION MADE

N. R. Desbriay, general passenger agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Vancouver, presided over the dinner, at which a handsome presentation was made to the guest of honor, and at which F. W. Peters, Charles Murphy, retired general manager, Western Lines, and J. H. Wilson, director of the C.P.R., were present.

A toast to the Canadian Pacific Railway was replied to by C. A. Corbett, superintendent, British Columbia district, and a succeeding toast to the Canadian Pacific Steamships was replied to by Captain Beetham. Captain W. M. Davidson, and Commander A. J. Acting Mayor Brown Announces Plans Being Made to House 225 Nurses

The site for the new nurses' home at the Royal Jubilee Hospital was chosen yesterday, it was announced by Acting Mayor Percy R. Brown, following a meeting of the board of directors.

It is on the north side of the Richmond Road entrance to the hospital grounds. Mr. C. Watkins, architect, was in attendance to advise the board as to the best location. Plans are being drawn up for the erection of a building to give accommodation to 225 nurses. The present home houses only seventy, and is already overcrowded. Accommodation for the rest of the nursing staff is temporarily provided for in the old hospital wing.

Now that the site has been determined, the directors will shortly consider the type of building best suited for the purpose, and what the cost of such a building will be.

Foreign Office Denies Agreement on Planes

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Foreign Office issued a statement today, denying a report, published in the London paper that France and Great Britain had reached an agreement on aviation defence. There is no agreement, understanding of any kind with France regarding air matters that has not been published, the Foreign Office said, and all rumors to the contrary were entirely unfounded.

DELEGATES AT PARTY PARLEY NUMBER 6,400

Supporters of Premier Baldwin Meet in Yarmouth Convention to Frame Platform for Election

IS BEGINNING OF POLITICAL BATTLE

Coming Contest Between Conservatives and Laborites Expected to Be Remarkable Party Fight

YARMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 26.—The first move in a nationwide campaign for the forthcoming British general election, when Premier Stanley Baldwin and his Government appeal to the British voters for another five-year mandate, will be made here tomorrow, when 6,400 delegates, a record gathering, go into conference to hammer out a platform.

Within a month from now Conservatives and Labor, by means of their annual conference, will determine the issues upon which they will wage the biggest party struggle since the Great War. The most intense fights are expected on tariff questions, the extension of protective measures for the safeguarding of industries by special import duties.

British political strategists are getting ready to adopt new means and methods of appealing to the public.

Close watch is kept on the rapid development of wireless and talking machines. "Talkies" are being made of Baldwin and other political leaders, and motor cars and trucks with the latest broadcasting apparatus are ready for swift campaigns through the country districts. The hunt for party songs is on, and again the Conservatives are in the lead with songs already issued.

BOARD TOLD B.C. CEMENT NEEDS DUTY

Mr. E. Tomlin Appears Before Tariff Board to Advocate Interest of Cement Industry in Province

COMPETITION FROM EUROPE BY WATER

(Special to The Colonist) OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 26.—Mr. E. Tomlin, of the British Columbia Cement Company, told the advisory tariff board today of the difficulties that had been encountered for ten years by cement producers in the Pacific Coast, and the present conditions.

He strongly protested against the removal of the duty, claiming such removal would permit of the importation of 95 per cent of the British Columbia cement market was on tide water.

The Germans, he said, had formed an international cement cartel, including all the cement production in Germany, France, Belgium, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, aggregating 170,000,000 barrels annually, half of which would have to find a market abroad. Freight rates as low as 20 cents per barrel had been quoted from Germany to Vancouver.

Mr. Tomlin said there was a present possible maximum cement production in British Columbia of 1,500,000 barrels. Limestone, with the necessary energy percentage of carbonate of lime, was difficult to secure, and the coal used contained a large percentage of ash. He also attributed the higher cost of production in British Columbia to the Eight-Hour Day Law, minimum wage enactment, high taxation and higher cost of supplies. Of taxation, he said, "British Columbia has a higher rate of taxation than any other province of Canada or of any state in the American Union." He placed the rate at $34.72 per capita per annum, compared with $15.72 in Alberta, and $11.64 in Ontario, the next in order.

EASTERN PRODUCERS

Professor Gilbert Jackson, Toronto, on behalf of the producers, in summing up, agreed that for the most part the cement mills in Canada were active and prospering. It did not follow, however, that protection for their product was no longer necessary, he said. "No matter how weak an industry may be, when considered as a whole, there will also certainly be found producers capable of meeting competition from abroad without a vestige of protection," Professor Jackson said.

It was argued that it was the duty of those entrusted with the revision of the tariff to take into consideration the effects which the removal of the duty would have upon the mills in the less favorably situated areas.

Following completion of the producers' case, the hearing adjourned to meet at the discretion of the board.

Commander George Dyott Tells Story of Expedition Through Brazil Jungles

Commander George M. Dyott, British explorer and aviator, set out last Spring to discover the fate of Colonel Fawcett, who disappeared three years ago in the Mato Grosso wilderness in search of forgotten civilization. Following is the first account of his experiences to be published by Commander Dyott, other than a brief radio dispatch sent before he abandoned his baggage and radio equipment in his flight to the Amazon and safety.

(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

PARA, Brazil, Sept. 26.—I descended the Kulu River, twenty-six days by canoe, reaching the camp where Colonel Fawcett abandoned the river and struck overland to the east. I met the chief of the Anafuca Indians, named Alioque, who said that he and two men, with two women, helped carry Colonel Fawcett's cargo. After much bargaining I persuaded him to go with me, but I could not get him to tell about the fate of Colonel Fawcett.

We remained the night in the chief's house, where we found several things belonging to Colonel Fawcett, clothes and a tin trunk, also parts of instruments. He said that he was given these things by another tribe called the Galapagos, but I doubt it.

We followed Colonel Fawcett's trail many days. We found evidence of his passage. After hard going, we reached the maroca of the Galapagos Indians. They told me that the other tribe was no good. After giving them presents they related how Colonel Fawcett was killed by the Indians, five days after passing east of Kulu River.

TOBACCO CROP COMPLETE LOSS

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 26.—Virtually every stalk of tobacco which was planted in Windsor County's fields is today lying on the ground caused by a heavy white frost which hit the county during the night. A hurried survey by agricultural officials today indicated that the crop is a complete loss, although they could not estimate the actual amount of damage done in dollars. Throughout the night, two farmers drew huge loads of tomatoes to the cannery factories throughout the county, but even so their work did not prevent serious damage to these crops.

For the first eight months of 1928, the net earnings amounted to $29,573,135.35, which compare with $22,122,845.66 for the corresponding eight months of 1927, an increase in favor of the current year of $7,450,289.69, or 33 per cent.

FIFTY-FOUR FOUND DEAD AFTER BLAST

One Hundred Injured—All Soldiers—Hole in Ground Marks Site of Spanish Fort

TON OF POWDER BLOWS UP

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, Sept. 26.—The bodies of fifty-four persons have been recovered tonight from the vicinity of the huge hole in the ground which was all that marked the site where Fort Cabrera had stood until the explosion of its powder magazine last night. Most of the dead have been identified. The majority of the injured, who numbered more than one hundred, were soldiers, as were all the known dead.

People were just leaving the theatre when the sky became crimson, followed by a tremendous repercussion and a rain of sand. Most of the windows in the city, a mile from the fort, were broken. All cottages in the vicinity of the fort were laid in ruins, and in the nearby barracks quarters, only the walls of buildings were left standing. More than a ton of black powder was stored in the magazine. Taxicabs were pressed into service to carry the injured to hospitals. It was reported officially that "the casualties could be seen being removed from the ruins."

B.C. TRUSTEES END MEETING

OFFICERS ELECTED AND NAINIMO SELECTED FOR NEXT MEETING PLACE

Appointment of Women School Inspectors Approved—Medical Regulation Upheld

PENITENT, B.C., Sept. 26.—F. H. Hobbs, of Saanich, was chosen unanimously to be president of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association for the ensuing year. The other officers are: C. Leroy, Vernon, first vice-president; A. G. Perry, North Vancouver, second vice-president; Capt. George A. Grant, secretary-treasurer; Executive: A. L. McWilliams, Vancouver; A. G. Perry, North Vancouver; Mrs. E. B. Bernard, Nanaimo; S. Bowell, New Westminster.

Nainimo was selected as the place of next year's convention. A resolution submitted by Peachland, and moved by Mrs. Smith, that appointments to the British Columbia inspectors be made irrespective of sex from among those teachers holding British Columbia inspectors' certificates, was carried.

MEDICAL INSPECTION

"The medical inspection of schools in British Columbia stands on a higher plane than in any other part of the North American continent today," asserted J. S. Gordon, municipal inspector, Vancouver, in urging the British Columbia School Trustees' Association not to revert to an old regulation involving unnecessary loss of school time by students and teachers in connection with quarantine of contacts with infectious diseases.

A resolution to amend the present regulations was submitted by North Vancouver district, which claimed through the mover, Mrs. D. E. Humphrey, to have traced infection of chicken pox to the new regulation allowing pupils to remain in school for twelve days after rash appeared. The motion was lost.

Mr. Gordon related how the conclusion had been reached that pupils were being kept out of school unnecessarily. Out of 3,000 cases of rubella in Vancouver one year, with 4,000 contacts, there had not been a single case develop inside the first twelve days.

The new regulation had saved the equivalent of one year's tuition for 200 children and he characterized it as one of the most forward steps taken.

Washington Sending Note on Naval Accord

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Interest in Washington's reply to the memorandum recently submitted by the British and French Governments enclosing the Anglo-French naval agreement transcended all other interest in Washington at present. Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, will not send his reply until the end of this week at the earliest.

Garages at the contents of the reply are premature, because it is known that further conferences between Secretary Kellogg and President Coolidge on the subject are to be held within the next forty-eight hours.

Force of Impact When Craft Strikes River Opens Breach in Floor—Inrush of Water Sweeps Men to Back of Cabin—One Opens Door and All Make Escape

Soft Mud Bars Way to Shore Until Method of Using Line Is Devised

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 26.—Swept into the back of the cabin by the rush of water when their big Fairchild seaplane crashed in a dense smoke bank on the Peace River a week ago, Squadron Leader E. A. Godfrey and his three companions on the Vancouver-to-Ottawa flight narrowly escaped losing their lives. That is revealed in the account related by Wing Commander L. B. Bredner, who, with Wing Commander Landson Gordon, arrived here from the north this evening.

Dense smoke from bush fires raging along the Peace River, about 200 miles below the town and in the vicinity of Keg River, was responsible for the accident, according to the flyers.

Conditions were so bad that it was decided to land on the river. "Owing to the heavy smoke, we could not see an order to flatten out," said Wing Commander Bredner. "The first thing we knew was that we had crashed on the water."

The force of the impact drove us to the bottom of the plane and there was an instantaneous rush of water that carried the flyers all back to the end of the plane. Prompt action was taken by Wing Commander Gordon, who opened a door, and the men were enabled to climb to the floaters. One of these, however, got stuck in the mud, while the other came to the surface. The plane was at least 100 feet from shore before it stopped drifting.

GETTING ASHORE

The first to make the attempt to reach shore was Sergeant-Major Graham, but he found this impossible owing to the soft river bed. Later Squadron Leader Godfrey and Sergeant-Major Graham managed to make shore by utilizing a line.

By diving into the wreckage, Squadron Leader Godfrey and Wing Commander Bredner managed to salvage kit rolls and other equipment.

Airship Wireless

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 26.—The German airship, which made its third test flight this afternoon, cruising above Lake Constance while its crew tried out the wireless equipment of the dirigible. Wavelengths of 600, 900 and 1,800 metres were used. The longest is intended for private messages. Dr. Hugo Eckener watched the flight from the ground. The ship was navigated by Lieutenant Commander Flimmig. There were twenty-five guests aboard, made up of officials and aeronautical experts.

VOTE DECISIVE IN CHELTENHAM

CONSERVATIVES GIVEN INCREASED MAJORITY IN BRITISH BY-ELECTION

Result Encouraging to Supporters of Premier Baldwin—Liberal Vote Falls Off

CHELTENHAM, Sept. 26.—The Conservative party retained its representation in the House of Commons from the constituency of Cheltenham. Sir Walter Preston, Conservative, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Sir J. T. Agg-Gardner. The vote was: Sir Walter Preston, Conservative, 10,438; Sir John Brunner, Liberal, 6,678; Florence Widdowson, Labor, 3,963.

By the result the Conservative party more than held its own against the assault of the Liberal and Labor candidates. The majority was slightly larger than that of the Conservative candidate the previous election. Sir Walter represented Mile End from 1918 to 1923. Today's election was the first three-cornered election in Cheltenham. Miss Widdowson supplemented her outdoor meetings by a door-to-door canvass.

The result of the voting in Cheltenham in the last general election was: Rt. Hon. J. T. Agg-Gardner, Conservative, 11,909; and J. S. Holman, Liberal, 9,146.

MY KITCHEN NOTEBOOK

Giving Vegetables New Frills

If your family inclines to a diet of meat and bread and potatoes, you'll have to lure them into the vegetable habit by subtle, feminine wiles. Let your vegetables appear in new guises, their downright, honest virtues adorned with all the trimmings of new sauces and new flavors that your imagination can devise. Remember it isn't the girl with the common sense shoes and the mannish tie that wins hearts. High among the vegetables to which we owe allegiance is spinach. Rich in iron, rich in vitamins, it should be eaten much more often than it is. Yet somehow it turns up at the word "spinach." I blame the cook. I wonder if she has served it au gratin, with a hollandaise sauce, as a salad with mayonnaise, or combined with onions or leeks and cream sauce in a most tempting puree.

The Sauce Is the Secret
A fine cream sauce is times inseparable the making of a vegetable dish. There's practically nothing it doesn't go well with, practically nothing that doesn't take on added deliciousness—if your sauce is a really good one. I have a recipe that is really wonderful—richer, smoother, creamier, more delicious in flavor, by far than the ordinary recipe. It's made with Carnation Milk. Of course you know that Carnation Milk is more dependable—certain to be pure and sweet—than any ordinary milk. But for Cream Sauces there are certain other qualities particularly advantageous. One is the double cream content of Carnation Milk, which when you use it undiluted, gives a sauce twice as rich in cream as ordinary milk.

Makes Creamier Cream Sauces

THE sauce is the secret of delicious creamed vegetables—and Carnation Milk is the secret of the perfect cream sauce. Carnation is double-rich and creamy-smooth. You can't help getting better results with it. (See recipes above)

INDUSTRY IN BRITAIN IS ON UPGRADE

Lord Melchett (Sir Alfred Mond) Brings Good Report of Improvement of Conditions

ON WAY TO VISIT NICKEL PROPERTY

Leading British and World Financier Crosses Atlantic to Inspect Mines in Ontario

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Lord Melchett, better known under his former title, Sir Alfred Mond, arrived here today on the liner Homeric, en route to Northern Ontario to inspect nickel properties. Discussing with newspapermen British economic matters, Lord Melchett defended his programme of mergers, said that his ambition had been to develop the British Empire as a single vast economic unit, and the fostering of industrial co-operation. If British industry is to progress and prosper, he said, large scale amalgamations are essential. Lord Melchett declared that there is a distinct improvement in the industrial position in England. "Some of the big industries, like coal and steel, and part of the textile industry, are still in a depressed condition, but they are gradually getting better, and I think the bottom has been touched in the depression which has been affecting these industries and causing unemployment."

TIME TO MAKE PROMISE GOOD

SKELETON OF AMBROSE SMALL NOT YET PRODUCED BY DR. LANGNER

Toronto Inspector of Detectives Has Not Yet Heard From Alleged Missing Reader

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—Inspector of Detectives, George Guthrie, of Toronto, is looking forward with interest for one more week to elapse for Dr. Langner, of Calgary, to complete his investigation into the "Small case."

Dr. Langner, much-advertised Viennese criminologist, proclaimed that he will produce the skeleton of Ambrose Small, the Toronto millionaire and theatrical manager who disappeared suddenly in December, 1919, and that his investigations into the nine-year-old mystery were almost completed. "Dr. Langner said that it would take him a month to complete the case and the month will soon be up," Inspector Guthrie told your correspondent.

Inspector Guthrie is disappointed that he has not heard from Dr. Langner. Inspector Guthrie says that he doesn't want to belittle Dr. Langner's ability in the slightest way. In other cases, the Toronto Detective Bureau has been furnished with information from anonymous sources and they have turned out all right and the same thing might be the case in this instance. Inspector Guthrie stated that if there was any money forthcoming to finance Dr. Langner in his efforts it would have come through Mrs. Small, and he doesn't know whether or not Mrs. Small would be likely to supply Dr. Langner with funds.

Chinese Envoy Predicts "Chop Stick" Diplomacy

When Nations Sit Together at Table, Feeding Tit-Bits to One Another, Differences Must Vanish, Says Dr. Tehyi Hsieh

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—... of the most interesting things about the Nationalist movement in China is the fact that it is sending emissaries all over the world, not only to gain the sympathy of what in China is known as the foreigner, but to keep alive the Nationalist spirit among the brethren.

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh said at a dinner held recently at the headquarters of the Nationalist League, at 1110 Clarke Street: "I want you all wholeheartedly to co-operate with me to cement the friendship of Canadians for the new cause which is spreading throughout the Republic of China."

In China, food is one of the greatest centers of friendship, as everything is done "over a cup of tea." Last night, more than tea was served. In fact, there were no fewer than sixteen courses, comprising the principal delicacies eaten in China. This gargantuan feast would have tickled the palate of almost any of the royal household of the old regime. This feast took more than a week to prepare, and consisted of birds' nest soup, sharks' fins, chicken in a sauce, pineapple, elephant ears, Peking duck, bamboo shoots, velvet fish straight from the lake in the Summer palace of the old Dowager, Pir Yi, situated out-

Demolished in Landing

THIS is the helicopter plane of the Spanish inventor, Juan de la Cierwa, known as "the foolproof" plane, which was demolished in making a landing. Cierwa and his passenger, Frantz Rechel, escaped unhurt. The accident was due to the failure of the upper propeller to break the plane's spin sufficiently in hovering to lift it from a height of 500 feet. The plane landed heavily, smashing the landing gear, wings and body.

We confronted Alouque with this information and he then said that the killing was done by the Suyas Indians and that he had not gone beyond the Kulene River. Alouque then continued to tell me how the Anafuqua Indians were good men. On reaching the Kulene River he developed a bit of knowledge of the place and took me some distance to the east, pointing out where Colonel Fawcett had gone, and the abandoned house where he had slept. Eventually he said he could not go further because of enemy tribes.

We went back to the Kulene River and descended it in an Indian canoe with the same men joining up with my party once more where the Kulene and Kulene united. On the way down I tried to get Alouque to open up, but he demanded presents and I had few with me. Besides other Indians were coming with us to get presents also. I told Alouque that I would give a rifle to the man who would show me the place where the white men had been killed. At once he said that he would show me their bones, some of which still remained. I made a bargain with him to go up the river again in a few days.

On reaching my party again I found that they were surrounded by hundreds of Indians all demanding axes and knives. The Indians threatened to help themselves and the situation became critical. To

MANY MINERALS ARE REPRESENTED

The Smithers branch of the British Columbia Chamber of Mines has shipped a box of specimens for the ore exhibit being built up at the Parliament Buildings here, from the mines in the Central Interior.

In making this announcement Mr. L. S. McGill, the president, says that his branch carried off first place at the Prince Rupert Fair, from the Portland and Alouque mines and other districts. Eighty different properties were represented, extending from the American Boy property on Nine Mile Mountain, at New Hazelton, to the Collier property at Francois Lake. It included free milling gold, gold bearing arsenopyrite, gold-silver ores, copper of different kinds, zinc, galena, native silver, ruby silver, realgar, manganese, molybdenite, three kinds of coal, collinite and other minerals.

J. O'Brien's operations at the Victory and King Tut properties on Hudson Bay Mountain have been closed for the present. It is not known here when resumption will take place.

Work is now under way on the new road to Owen Lake, which will be of great benefit to the development of the large and rich deposits of mineral in that section. This has been urged for a great many years but has been held back until this time. The new Minister of Public Works and the new Minister of Mines are looking into it in person. Meantime construction is under way.

SAYS BALANCE OF TRADE UNFAVORABLE

Sale of American Produce Hits Canadian Grower, Contends Markets Commissioner

Unfavorable trade balances form the subject of remarks by Mr. J. A. Grant, Markets Commissioner, in his latest bulletin, to hand yesterday. Canadians are informed that they are the largest buyers of American products in the world. Also that their buying in that market far exceeds their sales. Trade is just what the world needs, meaning buying and selling in a balanced way. It might be a reasonable time to point out one way to bring Canadian trade nearer the balancing point. In the fruit and vegetable trade there is a heavy unfavorable balance in favor of the United States. Take the situation on the prairies this year, where many carloads of rhubarb, strawberries, raspberries, cherries, grapes, peaches, apricots, pears, plums, apples, etc., are

South Pole Expedition Well Under Way

THE South Pole expedition of Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd is already in movement—two of his supply ships being now southward bound. The City of New York, a barkentine, set sail from New York on August 25, carrying thirty-two men and 200 tons of supplies and equipment and has passed through the Panama Canal on her way to New Zealand. The trawler Eleanor Bolling—named after Byrd's mother—set out to sea from Brooklyn, carrying thirty members of the expedition and 600 tons of supplies and equipment, although it is now laid up at Norfolk, Va., for an overhauling. The big whaler Larksten, however, is now out at sea headed for Panama. She is carrying four diamond planes. Those aboard include Bert Balchen, of Greenley Island rescue flight fame, who is Byrd's chief aerial lieutenant, and two other pilots, Harold June and Dean Smith. The steamer Ross, fourth of Byrd's ships, is scheduled to sail from Hampton Roads this month with other impediments and with the 100 Eskimo huskies which will help in establishing Antarctic bases. Most of these dogs came from Quebec and Labrador. Commander Byrd himself plans to join the Larksten when it reaches San Pedro, Cal., two weeks hence. From there he will sail for Dunedin, New Zealand. They will then proceed as shown on the map for 2,300 miles to their base camp at Bay of Whales on the great polar ice barrier. From this point the major explorations and the final dash to the pole itself will be made by plane. It is expected that Byrd will be continuously in touch with the outside world by radio—not only during the early stages of his journey, but also from his Bay of Whales base in Ross Sea and even while flying by plane over the 10,000-foot-high mountains which he must conquer on his final dash to the Pole.

CLUB SEASON BEGINS WELL

Ladies' Musical Introduces Brilliant Young Talent at Opening Concert of Year—Officer Reads Paper

RUSSIAN MUSIC RECITAL THEME

The Ladies' Musical Club opened their non-professional 1928-29 season yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel with a programme which aroused great enthusiasm. As a foretaste of what the coming months contain it served wonderfully well to win the musical appetite, and an immediate stimulus to membership registrations was noticeable, the club season beginning with a registration of about 250.

Arranged around a paper on "Rachmaninoff and the Modern Russian School" by the vice-president, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, the programme also introduced two instrumentalists, Miss Wilma Wills, a talented young violinist of Seattle, and Miss Arline Falconvitch, whose unusual genius stirred the audience. Mrs. Cameron's paper was a survey of Russian music from the earliest times. She spoke of the influence of the Russian people and the characteristic nature of her art. As far back as the sixth century the people of Russia had taken pride in their music, which developed through folksong and other primitive forms to the period beginning with 1836 when Glinka and his contemporaries laid the foundations on which the modern school rests. More than in other European countries, vocal music preceded instrumental music in Russia.

With the result that folksong was developed to a high degree and furnished a rich source of inspiration as thematic material when the beginning of instrumental composition took place. In addition to this, however, Russia's dramatic history in more modern times supplied colorful inspiration, the victory over Napoleon in 1812, for instance, finding expression in some of the best-known orchestral compositions. About this time, too, the classical composers' works found their way to Russia and gave stimulus to her own musicians.

COMPOSERS NAMED
Among the greater Russian composers named by Mrs. Cameron were Glinka, Oudabichev, Cesar Cui, Balakirev, Moussorgsky, Rimsky-Korsakov, Glazounoff, Scriabine, Stravinsky, Arensky, Taneyeff and Tchaikovsky. Tchaikovsky had represented the Russian ideal to Rachmaninoff, who in turn has come to be regarded by the Western world as one of the greatest composers of the Russian school, and at the same time an intellectual, an idealist and an aristocrat among musicians.

Born in 1873, he belonged to a family with musical traditions, so that he experienced every encouragement in his musical studies. At the age of nine he entered the Conservatory at St. Petersburg, a few years later being taken by his parents to Moscow, where he entered the Conservatory there. In referring to some of the more notable of Rachmaninoff's compositions, Mrs. Cameron recalled tributes of such men as Harold Bauer and Josef Hofmann to the noble, dignified, sincere and profound character of the Russian's work. She added that it was to be regretted the popularity of his C Sharp Minor prelude had rather obscured some of his other work. Rachmaninoff's tribute to one of his countrymen, Medtner, was also quoted. Rachmaninoff having expressed sorrow at the neglect which had been shown this great modern composer's compositions mentioned were his one opera "Alaska," his symphonic piece, "The Rock," his D Minor piano sonata, "The Island of Death," his third and fourth piano concertos, "The Bell," "Spring," and other sonatas, operas and devotional works.

TALENTED VIOLINIST

Miss Wilma Wills, who was the first of the two instrumentalists to play yesterday, is unusually talented. Her execution is brilliant, her tone rich, and her style altogether highly promising. Her numbers were ambitious, including the opus "Russian Airs du Souvenir de Moscou" by Wieniawski, an animated encore number in which old Russian dances were the theme of the composition, and a movement from a Tchaikovsky concerto which provided a very fine revelation of her capacities for firm tone and clean phrasing, and the little Schubert song, played on the flute, which she added as her encore. At the piano she was ably accompanied by her sister, Miss Dorothy Wills.

Arline Falconvitch, a pianist not long in her teens, has a real instinct for the beautiful in music, and nature has given her an excellent teacher have moulded her hands to give this instinct expression. With a simplicity and artlessness of manner which is at first glance quite misleading, she has both gravity and poise and easily conducts her audience to the new world of ideas which she has to work with. A plastic grace and fluency in execution, a chiselled nicety of phrasing, nuance and rhythm, are only some of the more beautiful mechanical features which support an inherent instinct for all that is charming and appealing in the playing of Glinka's "The Lake," transcribed by Balakirev, had a wistful, fluttering beauty; the Chopin "Black Key Etude" had much of the same beauty, and the composer's Waltz in E Flat was distinguished by grace of line and tempo. For an encore she gave a piece which is a little thing by Darius, "Cuckoo."

LAND CONSECRATED AT THETIS ISLAND

Bishop Schofield Officiates at Service—Has Busy Day in Chemo District

CHEMINUS, Sept. 26.—The Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, and Mrs. Schofield, spent Sunday in Chemainus and vicinity. Motoring from Victoria, Bishop Schofield held a morning service at Crofton, coming on to Chemainus after lunch at 2.30. He and Mrs. Schofield crossed by launch to Thetis Island, accompanied by Rev. B. E. Spurling, Chemainus; Rev. E. M. Willis, of Shawanigan Lake; Rev. A. Bischoff, of Thetis Island; and Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Long. Arriving at Thetis, the party proceeded to a plot of land reserved by Mr. H. Burchell for church purposes. A number of Thetis Island residents were also present, and the land was consecrated, the service beginning with the reading by Rev. B. E. Spurling of a petition asking that the land be consecrated. At the conclusion of the service, Mrs. R. Forbes kindly entertained the party to tea, those present being Mr. Burchell, Mr. and Mrs. Forbes, Miss Hassell, Miss Doris Hassell, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. Ledbetter, Major and Mrs. Booth, Major and Miss Henage, and the Chemainus party. The latter returned home at 5.30. Bishop Schofield taking part in the evening service at St. Michael and All Angels' Church. Bishop and Mrs. Schofield left later in the evening for Westholme, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd.

HUNTERS WARNED TO BE CAREFUL

Forest Fires Show Increase in Proportion to Number of Visitors in Woods

A chart showing the number of forest fires in British Columbia throughout the year, gives enlightening information about the basic causes of fire. It shows, for instance, that three major factors cause practically all outbreaks. Low relative humidity—a condition of the atmosphere in which the woods become highly inflammable. The number of people occupying a given forest area, and the degree of care these people take in preventing fires. This is being demonstrated during the present hunting season. Thousands of people are going into the woods in search of game. Forest fires show an increase in direct proportion to this increase in forest visitors. When humidity is low, and such conditions may exist even on Autumn days, the menace to the forest becomes twofold in its intensity.

Relative humidity conditions are entirely beyond our control. To prohibit hunters from enjoying their sport in the woods is impractical, an encroachment on the liberties of the subject. But we can eliminate carelessness, and carelessness is the cause of 85 per cent of all forest fires in British Columbia.

There may be thousands of people happily journeying through the woods and relative humidity may be at danger point. Yet if carelessness is eliminated, fires lighted only in places which are absolutely safe, and not at all during the heat of the day on occasions when relative humidity indicates that it would be dangerous to do so, the forests will be safe from fires and our great heritage of forest wealth will be protected. A public, thoroughly aroused to forest consciousness, careful with fire always, is our greatest single means of effecting forest perpetuation.

EVENING TECHNICAL COURSES OUTLINED

School Board Offering Splendid Opportunity for Youth of Capital City

To the lad or girl who desires to supplement training in the workshop or store, the evening technical classes now being organized by the Victoria School Board, open up a definite field of advancement. These classes are established to enable young men and women to continue their education beyond what they have received in the day school, and to supplement their training for the successful prosecution of the trade or occupation in which they may be engaged. The board, in the syllabus now being distributed throughout the city, advocates regular attendance, assiduous study and a rigid observance of the regulations governing these classes, otherwise students would be throwing their time away in useless effort. The classes outlined include reading, writing and arithmetic, thereby giving students a splendid background for the study of technical subjects. Commercial subjects, such as bookkeeping, shorthand, and typewriting are also included in the technical courses. A thorough grounding in wood working, sheet metal working, art metal work, machine shop practice, engineering, machine construction and gasoline engines are provided. Building construction and architectural drawing are other subjects included in the list, which should appeal strongly to apprentices and workers in the building trades.

The art section is quite varied, covering the field of commercial design, stencilling, embroidery, pottery, lettering, poster designing, cartooning, drawing in light and shade, color theory, etc. Fine arts are treated under painting in oils, water-color and in tempera. Training in domestic science is provided for in the classes under dressmaking.

UNDESIRABLE PUBLICITY

Under what new aspect of the Criminal Law of Canada is a prisoner allowed to give extensive publicity to confessions, to criticisms regarding the charge against him, to comments on his case and to veiled attempts to implicate others with the idea of establishing his own innocence before he comes to trial? The publicity given to all the sayings of Gordon Stewart Northcott, now held in duress in Vancouver, constitutes an amazingly new interpretation of the process of Criminal Law in this country. That law has not been amended, to our knowledge, to permit the case of a man under arrest in this country being canvassed in all its bearings, with the prisoner himself as the chief pleader on his own behalf, before ever extradition proceedings are commenced, let alone any trial of the charge being inaugurated.

The prisoner, Northcott, was permitted to travel from the Okanagan to Vancouver in company with a newspaper reporter, and, moreover, permitted to express any opinion he liked for publication. This latitude is apparently still being allowed, for hardly a day passes in which Northcott is not attempting to prejudice the charge against him by giving statements to the press, while, others, who subsequently will be witnesses at his trial, are also permitted by our authorities to give their opinions broadcast for the detection of the public. The case is one wholly anomalous in Canada, and particularly in relation to the latitude of speech allowed to the prisoner himself. It is a matter in which the Attorney-General, as chief law officer of the Crown, should intervene, for the character of the publicity given to the Northcott case is contrary to the processes of the Criminal Law in this country. It may be said in extenuation that the crimes alleged were committed in the United States. That does not alter the situation because the man charged was arrested in Canada and is still subject to Canadian law, and will be until extradited. The fact is that a dangerous precedent is being created. The sooner it is everted, the less chance there will be of this country developing maidlin sentiments for criminals and their crimes.

A DECLINING FRUIT INDUSTRY

So far nothing has emanated from the Federal Government to show that it has any solution for the disabilities under which the fruit growing industry of the Dominion suffers. The problem was drawn attention to forcibly by Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Conservative leader, in a public address at Winnipeg. Canada's imports of fruit are rapidly increasing; her exports are steadily declining. The figures are as follows: Imports, 1928, $27,313,000; 1927, $30,296,000; and for the year ending July 31 last, $35,932,459. The export figures are: 1928, $9,385,500; 1927, $8,515,217, and for the year ending July 31, last, $5,512,293.

The facilities which the Federal Government offers the products of the American fruit industry to find markets in Canada explain the foregoing figures. Canada now has an adverse balance of trade in fruit of upwards of $30,000,000 annually. In commenting on these figures Mr. Bennett asks, "When the Canadian fruit industry is ruined what price do you think you will then pay for American fruit?" The obvious answer is that the Americans will dictate the price; they will be practically without competition in the Canadian markets.

The decision of the Federal Government not to put the anti-dumping duties into effect has had almost ruinous results on the fruit industry of Canada during the present year. British Columbia has been a particular sufferer. Her committee of direction to control prices for the producers of the Okanagan district has been powerless in the face of the surplus products dumped on the Prairie markets from the American side. The Okanagan growers are facing a new crisis in the chequered history of production in that valley. It is very apparent that if the Federal Government has any desire to build up the fruit industry of Canada the present policy it is following is all wrong. That policy can only be judged by results. American imports of fruit are showing substantial gains; Canada's exports are declining. As more American fruit is sold in the Dominion there is a shrinking market for the home product. That is the situation in a nutshell.

Protection—substantial and continuous—is needed to rehabilitate the Canadian fruit industry. British Columbia and Ontario growers have made their protests to the Federal Government, but so far absolutely nothing has been done either to relieve their present plight or to safeguard the future of their industry. So far as this province is concerned the Federal authorities, by their inept attitude, have created a new problem for the Provincial Government, namely, what to do to meet a situation which will probably soon mean a new burden on the taxpayers of British Columbia.

A NEW RACE OF TRAMPS

The municipal authorities and district councillors of many a township in Western America are at present worried by a race of tramps which they have classified under the name of "auto gypsies." What the motor tramp does is to get hold of a cheap second-hand car—which he can do for a mere song—pack his family and a few cooking utensils aboard, and move off to "the finest climate in the world." There he finds that a beneficent municipality has provided a beautiful camping site which he can use free of charge. It is true the site was planned and prepared for the genuine tourist, whose presence was desired and sought by means of lavish advertising; but the gypsy hobo and his kind have monopolized these camps to such an extent that many tourists will not go near them.

When the motor tramp arrives, his usual plan, if funds, food and petrol are low, is to approach one of the welfare agencies which are common in all American towns. If there should be no such agency, he goes to the town authorities with the plea that he is seeking a job. He knows full well that while that "search" progresses his family will be looked after; but he knows even better that no town is anxious to keep him and his family in the neighborhood, and that the main desire is to be rid of them without delay. So he accepts the two day rations and a full petrol tank which the town or the welfare agency offers, and passes on his way. Both parties are thus satisfied, in different ways.

Often, of course, the new style tramp, like the old, does not scruple to help himself as he passes. If he wants wood he chops it down, or purloins a fence post and rails. Orchards, fields and henhouses all suffer from the depredations of these gentry, so that the problem of dealing with the "auto gypsies" is daily becoming more acute. What is more, California has now found it necessary to institute a corps of truant officers on motorcycles to seek out the children who ride by the "fly by Fords." Instead of more prosaically learning the three R's in school as the law demands. So civilization creates new difficulties in removing old ones.

Records in Montreal show that some 23 per cent of the children placed in institutions of all kinds are those who have been deserted by their fathers. The problem of deserted wives has long been a serious one, and, one, very naturally, calling for humane consideration towards those who have suffered. Up to date very little sympathy has been extended to deserted husbands, and yet the probability is that there are at least as many of them as deserted wives. The problems are necessarily inter-related. In Montreal the establishment of a Domestic Relations Court is being advocated. Is it intended that its authority should apply to deserted husbands as well as to deserted wives?

IMPRESSIONS

Clo-osee (morning).

Clo-osee—a West Coast Indian settlement. Sordid, no doubt, but when from the misty main. Ghostly you loomed, half-clear then dim again. Mystery to you a haunting beauty sent. I saw dream palaces of Kibbe Khan. Washed by a wavering line of creamy spray: In ever-changing shapes of brown and grey Rose ancient bastions not built by man.

Like watered silk of mauve and opal green. The sea, by widening circles on its sheen. Shown swift canoes cleaving a graceful track: For Indians to their homes were going back. From haunts of white men trophies they were bearing. Not scalps—but fruit and clothes of color glaring.

Clo-osee (night).

The Maquinna anchored, and on deck I went. Honing the moon's white splendor would display More clear the rock-bound village to which by day The howling mist a witchery had lent. But lo! The moon had donned a veil of grey And was dim, save where on yonder heights Behind the maulman's home shone a beacon light.

To guide him on the dark and lonely way. Nearer he came; his oars with even stroke Arose the all-pervading silence broke. As cradled soft on Mother Ocean's breast. The vessel lingered 'er she homeward prest. And thus will Clo-osee ever wear for me "The light that never was on land or sea."

—Edith Riley.

RED

He plucked the berried creeper on my wall. A brown, moist, tall And lean and square of jaw; and with a drawl, "We passed through Crey forest in the Fall."

He said, "We saw the forest flame with Autumn's lovely fire."

He plucked a leaf and bent his head; "Blood red, blood red." Just that, he said: And "God—a scarlet tide!"

The years stood back. He knelt again beside Red earth at Crey, where a comrade died.

ANY HUSBAND TO ANY WIFE

If youth should pass and leave me sad, Restless and fretful, as the sea. Without the nobleness I had—

If youth should pass— Bend down and kiss me, sweet, and say, "For all you were and wished to be, And have been, (and be praised today)"

If youth should pass—

Be sure not to isolate yourself from your fellows; make and "keep in repair" friendships both with men and women, for thereby you gain what cannot be communicated by any other means.—Dr. D. Fraser Harris.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

That celebrated and expatriated Canadian, Rev. Almer Temple McPherson, is on a sin tour. The zealous preacher of the Four Square Gospel never goes on a pleasure tour, like common people. There are scoffers and sceptics who will say that the reverend lady generally goes upon a sin tour when the conditions at Los Angeles make some kind of a tour expedient. Be that as it may, Mrs. McPherson in the course of her latest sin tour arrived in Paris, and she has written for the newspapers an account of her experiences in that gay city. Again there are scoffers and sceptics who will say that Mrs. McPherson did not write an account of her experiences in Paris, basing their scoffings and their scepticism on the literary quality of the sermons delivered in the Los Angeles Temple of the Four Square Gospel. The scoffers will say that the reverend lady's account of the terrible and scandalous sights she saw in Paris were written by an ordinary newspaper man and that the profits derived from the transaction were shared on a fifty-fifty basis.

But such deductions are mere speculations. The point is that Mrs. McPherson was in Paris and was more horrified by what she saw there than by anything she had seen in New York or by anything she had read in the great metropolitan newspapers of the United States. Writing of her experiences, after making a tour of the Parisian places which no conventionally respectable person ever goes to see, she says: "I stood on the brink of hell tonight and looked down inside. Gay Paris is polished on the outside, but it is the rottenest city in the world at the core. This city is a veritable Sodom and Gomorrah, but it seems to me that God's patience is being tested and Paris is doomed to certain destruction. Your revelry will burst like bubbles in your champagne glasses, like your toy balloons you burst with cigarette tips. You have reverted to animals, but I know you are hungry for religion, and some day I will come back and try to save a few souls."

So with those parting words Mrs. McPherson shook the dust and departments of Paris from her shoes and her garments and continued her sin tour to other places. The chances are that she will never go back to Paris upon an evangelistic tour, for the gay and irresponsible Parisians have views of their own upon the subject of religion as they have peculiar and special views of their own upon the subject of amusement. Furthermore the devout and sincere pastor of the Los Angeles Temple has not the gift of tongues and could not preach revival sermons to the people of France in a language those people could understand. Consequently an evangelistic tour of France would not pay in either a spiritual or a material sense. Thus the case of Paris would appear to be hopeless and the people of Paris would appear to be doomed to destruction.

And yet Paris has continued on her gay and wicked courses for a long time and divine judgment has not fallen upon her. Many other famous people, some of them literary persons, a few of them ministers of religion, have visited the French capital, and have written and spoken of the many excellent citizens they met there. But of course the tourists who preceded Mrs. McPherson did not go to Paris and ask the police to take them around and show them all the wicked places and the degenerate and disreputable dens thereof and pass judgment upon all the people based upon the actions and conduct of a few of the people. They were not upon sin tours. They were seeking relaxation and gathering information, and found much that was interesting in the Parisians and their religious views and social customs.

Mrs. McPherson went to Paris to see what she wanted to see, and found the police very obliging and complaisant. Mrs. McPherson is professionally more interested in sinners than in righteous persons. If she had been introduced to social circles which were not under supervision of the police, she might have comprehended why Paris has been so long spared from destruction by fire and brimstone and the site of the beautiful city reduced to the condition of the plain from whence ascended the smoke of doomed Sodom and Gomorrah.

The tourists who went to observe and not to criticize, according to their testimony, found more than ten righteous men in Paris. They seemed to think that, relative to population, Paris was not in point of essential morals, materially different from other cities of the world. In fact, we believe that if nothing but a glimpse of the morality of hell would have been a satisfactory feature of the sin tour of the reverend lady from Los Angeles the desired sight might have been seen without crossing either this continent or the Atlantic Ocean.

The spectacle, of course, might have been somewhat different in detail, but the interpretation of it would have been the same.

A Wholesome Story

By S. E. LANG

"Joy Meredith," by Dora Olive Thompson. The Religious Tract Society, London, 1928.

Miss Dora Olive Thompson, who is a Canadian living in Toronto, a popular and successful writer of books for girls, is particularly happy in the titles of her stories, "Adele in Search of a Home," "A Dealer in Sunshine," and "Lizzie Ann." They are followed by "Joy Meredith." She is also happy in the illustrations which are scattered through the book, as well as in the picture of Joy, Paxton, the cover and the frontispiece. The chief interest in this book is found in the character study and the incidents which illustrate the development of the mind and capacity of the chief figure. It is the story of the expanding heart and interests of a young girl who rises gradually above the discouraging and depressing conditions of her life in a new and unaccustomed environment. It is a sweet and attractive story, not too good to be real and above all sweet, sane and wholesome.

COMPENSATION

(To Myself, on My 56th Birthday)

There's—for growing older—compensation! As years drag wearily along, There is the less inducement to do wrong;

Former joys no longer are—temptation; But—there's greater bliss in contemplation; The heart beats faster, when a moment's pause permits to blurt out a song

Comes wafted over the waters, or a song Soft sounds—from a Temple's elevation

The laws, that govern us, almighty be! The greatest—bids us practise charity.

In thought and deed, when we of others speak; And creating its sporadic outbreak, Live so! That the law of compensation

Shall—in old age—free thee from temptation! —Kilbee Gordon.

The forest's leafy green. Since you are you, I, too, go satisfied. Nor mention any mood Time yields not fret for any dream denied.

For, strangely, all seems good. If only hand in hand we two may go. Down on Earth's wistful ways, No child gift with a father's love can know. More peace through all the days.

Psychology as It Could Be Applied in Educational Work

Article IV

By BEMPRE AVANTI

A scrutiny of the four objectives of education as these were stated by the United States superintendents, reveals the desire on their part to found an educational system which shall help to evolve the very finest type of human beings. The finest types of human beings, we venture to suggest, are those who throughout their life, express active and harmonious co-operation with "the law of life and love governing the universe."

A college professor, writing in a current number of a leading magazine, bemoans the period in which we live as one "in which modern psychology has been let loose upon a stricken world." There are some grounds for the justification of such lament. Psychology is a mental science with a dual capacity, for it may function both analytically and synthetically. Up to the present time educationists have confined their attention almost wholly to its analytical function. With some of these it would seem to be regarded as an end in itself, instead of merely as a means to an end. As Havelock Ellis, that prince of present-day psychologists, says: "We cannot to the measurement of life apply our instruments of precision, and cut life down to their graduated marks. They have, indeed, their immensely valuable uses, but it is strictly as instruments and not as ends of living or criteria of the worth of life."

The synthetic application of the results of psychological research is just beginning to show in the pioneer efforts of outstanding educationists, whose path to progress is likely to be blocked for some time by the very results of modern psychology already referred to. Dr. Will Durant, writer and lecturer on psychology, a man with an H. D. Webster capacity for projecting his mind into the future, and a practical executive ability that has enabled him to launch one of the most successful organizations for adult education, puts the case thus: "Synthesis is always more difficult than analysis; psychology has not yet put together the human nature it has taken apart." He refers to the synthetic application of psychology as "one aspect of the subject that in our century will draw many initiates into its study." He continues, and it is important to remember alongside his prophecy the need for character training, voiced by high school students as the primal need in the present life of the young. "Before our children pass away, men will be building character as now they build ships and planes."

In the objectives of education as stated in our last article, the careful observer will note the definite attempt to apply psychology synthetically, that is, with its help, "human impulses will be consciously reshaped." This is probably the first definitely radical and fundamental application of the synthetic power of psychology to education.

HOW IT FUNCTIONS

On its synthetic side, psychology, in order to evolve the desired result, functions in two ways, viz., negatively and positively. Negatively, it works by the constant and systematic elimination of undesirable; positively, it works by the constant and systematic building in of the desirable. The ultimate object for which it works must always be clearly kept in view, and that not forgotten, but in its entirety. In British Columbia, as elsewhere, the object in toto of education is the finest type of young human product. With that end in view, synthetic psychology would carefully and scrupulously eliminate from the educational life of the young (in school, college, or university) all undesirable factors tending to be detrimental, disintegrating, or destructive, in regard to life. That is the negative side of its activity. Positively, it would consciously, consistently and systematically build in desirable factors tending to elevate, enhance and enrich life, human and other. Specifically applied, for example, to sciences, it would eliminate needless experimentation upon life of any allied type of experiment, tending to blunt the sensibilities of the young, to pervert the emotions of the adolescent, or in any way to cheapen and belittle the value of life in unformed minds. On the other hand, it would not only encourage but set a premium upon all contrivances, inventions and discoveries that contribute to the comfort, or improvement, of human or other life. In history, it would eliminate undue emphasis upon war, and its sporadic outbreak, and the life history of man as outbreaks of bad temper, of greed, of cruelty, of selfish self-assertion, which are bound to recur till man has put the counter-power of life neither in the hands of his animal, nor yet of his mental, but of his spiritual self.

On the positive side, it would concentrate upon the constructive side of man's genius in the past in the realms of commerce, industry, learning and the fine arts. In health work, it would, as regards the pupil, continue to eliminate bad habits and replace them by good; as regards the teacher, it would eliminate factors injurious to health, and replace them by conditions conducive to the fullest exercise of his abilities.

In home economics, it would eliminate useless drudgery and waste of energy and substance, and replace them by scientific methods and economy of energy and output. In occupying teachers and pupils alike, it would eliminate vain expenditure of time and energy along wrong or ill-chosen lines, and permit of much fuller application and development of specialized and congenial lines. It would, so far as each subject admits, adopt the project method, study, for individual and teamwork. It would welcome the inclusion in school curricula of arts and crafts as upbuilding and constructive factors, and promote the application of these to daily public and private life. It would seek to establish a system eliminating the waste of textbooks and providing for the care and preservation of those in current use. It would review the present expenditure of public money on education with a view to economy. This would probably result in the eliminating, curtailing or reshaping of certain existing subjects and the introduction

Destruction Wrought by Recent Hurricane in Florida

DEATH tolls rose steadily as relief forces pushed farther into the areas which were struck by the tropical hurricane which recently swept parts of the United States. From the Lake Okeechobee and West Palm Beach sections in Florida came revised reports which estimated that 800 persons lost their lives from the wind and the flood waters of the lake. Here are the first telephotos of the damage wrought by the hurricane in Florida. The one at the left, telephoned from Atlanta, Ga., shows the city park, West Palm Beach, centre of the city's amusements for winter tourists. The one on the right, also received via Atlanta, shows a third-story wall of the Lake Court Hotel, West Palm Beach, carried away by the winds.

GASOLINE TAX UNDISTURBED

NO ACTION HAS BEEN TAKEN
BY GOVERNMENT TO RE-
VISE RATE OF LEVY

Suggestions Have Come, However,
From Outside Interests. It Is Reported

No action of any kind has been taken by the Provincial Government in the way of increasing the gasoline tax, as has been suggested in some quarters. This is the information that is given by Premier Tomin, and also by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works. The latter member of the Government has had his name associated with an avowed intention on the part of the Government to make a decided advance in the tax paid by motorists, in order that more money may be available for work on the roads.

"The matter is not one with which my department has to deal, but in connection with the Minister of Finance to consider in connection with the revenues of the province," said Mr. Lougheed when the matter was brought to his attention. "Such a matter involving a decision as to policy on the part of the Government would only be decided upon following the most careful consideration by the Government. This consideration has not been given it."

It was explained by the Minister of Public Works that there have been suggestions from sources outside the Government along the line spoken of, but there is where the whole matter so far rests. "I sincerely regret," he added, "that any impression has gone out that the matter is being considered by the department."

He says he has had no intention of conveying any such impression

SONGHEES PARK PROVES POPULAR

Playground at Victoria West Catered to Residents of All Ages

The report presented by the superintendent of the Songhees playgrounds and park at Victoria West shows that the park is becoming more and more popular with the advance of years. The park owes in very large measure its existence to the activities of the Victoria West Brotherhood, which continues to exercise a deep interest in the property, exercising some supervision over it.

Mr. Phil Rose, in his last report covering the season now coming to a close, states that the features of the park which have been of prime importance have been the tennis courts, the athletic equipment, and the baseball diamond.

With regard to the tennis courts, the report was made by Mr. Robb, and that these were ahead of last year and there is still several weeks of playing to come. It is set out in the report that every evening the four courts were occupied and in the mornings the courts have been allowed the use of one of the courts. The athletic equipment, it is specified, has attracted not only the younger but many of the older ones. Every evening there have been from twenty to thirty older boys between the ages of fifteen and eighteen playing football, or at least, "shoot-in" into goal. On the basketball field it is noted there have been several older people nightly enjoying the excitement of "becoming young again and engaged in practicing the game."

The interest of the children was ever changing as the season advanced. Until late in July ball, skipping and baseball were the leading sports. On receiving a set of lighter quills, these came very strongly into demand.

The game of knife was introduced, and since that time there has not been a day that this was not enthusiastically played by the children. Boys from ten to fourteen have haunted the baseball diamond, and the quiet pitch continuously.

The year has witnessed many softball games in the Westholme League series. This has raised the attendance at the park there are no other days of the week where the attendance is in any way markedly light.

The conduct of the children and the older youths is referred to in the report as being very satisfactory. It is stated that in the few instances where expressions were used that were objectionable, it was found that the practice was stopped upon attention being called to it.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Sept. 26.—

Lieutenant Maxwell, in the rescue plane, yesterday paid a visit to Commander A. E. Godfrey and Sergeant Graham, marooned in a trappers' cabin near Carajou, 200 miles down the Peace River.

He reports Godfrey and Graham busy salvaging the engine of the wrecked Fairchild seaplane and making good progress with the work. Lieutenant Maxwell took off this morning for Cormorant Lake, his base.

Flight Commander Gordon and Wing Commander Broadner would say nothing for publication before leaving on the train last night for Edmonton, beyond repeating that dense smoke caused the flyers to land on the river.

Unfortunately, a shallow place was struck, the pontoons breaking off and the plane sliding into deep water.

Gordon and Broadner had hoped to fly to Cormorant Lake but the load proved too heavy for the plane.

Divorce Granted

In the Supreme Court here yesterday, Mr. Justice Murphy granted Jessie Elizabeth Gella Reid a decree absolute of divorce from George Reid in an uncontested action. The couple were married on July 13, 1904, at Aberdeen, Scotland. Mr. Claude L. Harrison appeared as counsel for the petitioner, while Mr. D. S. Tait represented the respondent.

GOAT ISLAND CRUSOE DEAD

BODY OF WELL-KNOWN ESQUIMALT CHARACTER FOUND IN CABIN BY CHINAMAN

James Johnson Had Lived on Island for Years, Subsisting on Fish and Vegetables

James Johnson, aged about eighty years, more intimately known by those working at the Todd Cannery as the "Robinson Crusoe of Goat Island," was found dead in his cabin on Monday night by a Chinaman who works at the cannery on Goat Island, in Esquimalt Harbor.

Constable Dick Meadows brought the body to the city yesterday, taking it to the Sands Funeral Parlor, where the inquest will be held. The man had been dead for about three weeks, Constable Meadows stated. He had died, it is believed, from natural causes. His body was found lying near the bed, face down, as if he had fallen forward when dressing. Johnson was a well-known character in Esquimalt, having lived on Goat Island for a number of years in a one-roomed cabin by himself. He was known to those working on the island as "Robinson Crusoe," for he lived chiefly on fish that he caught and vegetables he grew in his own small garden. It is believed that years ago he sailed out of Victoria with the sealing schooners.

Construction of a system of national highways, nearly 10,000 miles long and penetrating nearly every part of the country, is under way in the United States.

An engineer while on a holiday came across a man in charge of a traction engine that had stuck fast. Deciding to help the man, the engineer first inspected the steam gauge. It registered ten pounds pressure. "Afraid you'll never pull out with that bit of steam," he remarked to the driver. "Better wait till you get some more."

The driver wiped his moist forehead.

"Ten pounds, is it?" he retorted bitterly. "P'raps you'd like to know the safety valves is screwed down, and that pointer's away round for the third time."

BURRARD ST. BRIDGE ISSUE IS DISCUSSED

Some Public Works in Greater Vancouver Are Presented Before Provincial Cabinet

FURTHER DATA TO BE SUPPLIED

A delegation representing the Greater Vancouver area in matters of public interest to that community visited the Parliament Buildings yesterday, and met the members of the Government, making their requests for assistance in the Burrard Street bridge, and the Kitilano project.

In connection with the latter matter where there are divided interests including the Dominion, the province and the city, the Premier and members of the executive council, after hearing all the claims put forward for consideration, announced that the Cabinet would delay decision until fuller investigation was made into the project.

This will be carried out by a committee of the executive council, which will go more fully into all sides of the matter than could be given at the present time.

The Burrard bridge is something that has been up for some time. The original request made of the province was $100,000.

This matter was discussed at considerable length, but before any decision can be arrived at, the Government requested that plans showing the designs and all other information bearing on the subject should be filed with the executive council. The division proposed as to cost, including that borne by the C.P.R. and the B.C. Electric Railway Company, will all be set forth in the information filed for the guidance of the Government.

The delegation included Mr. George E. Crossan, city counsel for Vancouver; Mr. W. H. Leupke, of Point Grey; Mr. J. W. Cornett, member-elect for South Vancouver, and reeve of that municipality; Alderman Hammond, and several others.

NEW FIND IS MADE AT "MURDER FARM"

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Another link in the chain of evidence of asserted crimes of the Riverside "murder farm" of Gordon Stewart Northcott, was declared forged late today in the laboratory of a Los Angeles criminologist. The latter, J. Clark Sellers, announced that envelopes found on the ranch evidently offered proof of young Sanford Clark's tale of at least two boy murders by Northcott was based on fact. The envelopes, Sellers stated he had determined, were the same in size, color and texture as those upon which twelve-year-old Louis Window wrote letters to his parents a few days after he and his nine-year-old brother, Nelson, disappeared from their Pomona home last May 18.

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal), in an editorial today declares that the position of Premier Baldwin as head of the Conservative party is "clearly unassailable."

It suggests that Mr. Baldwin may be astute enough to realize that a position of quietude and makes no further mistakes of his own, the other parties may do his work for him, by "cutting each other's throats."

PRODUCTION OF GYPSUM GROWING

British Columbia Among Canadian Provinces in Which Industry Is Established

By L. M. COLE
 Mines Branch, Department of Mines

Gypsum is mined or quarried in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia, and in each of these provinces there are other properties capable of furnishing high grade material when market conditions warrant their exploitation.

The principal producing centres of gypsum in the Maritime Provinces are in Cape Breton Island near Baddeck, Cheticamp, Ingonish and Miramichi, at Antigonish in Antigonish County; and in Hants County in the vicinity of Windsor, Cheverie and Walton, all in Nova Scotia; in Albert County, New Brunswick, near Hillsboro, and at Plaster Rock, Victoria County, in the same province. In Nova Scotia the Canadian Gypsum Company, the Atlantic Gypsum Products Company and the Iona Gypsum Products, Limited, are among the larger producers, while in New Brunswick the Albert Manufacturing Company is the principal operator. At present the greater part of the crude gypsum produced in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is exported as such, and finds a ready market on the Atlantic seaboard of the United States. Several new companies have either recently reached the production stage or will do so within the present year, and the industry in these two provinces is showing a decided improvement.

In Ontario, the Canada Gypsum & Alabaster, Limited, the only company at present operating, is maintaining its production from its Caladenia and Lythmore properties and is also operating its mine at Midland, where Nova Scotia gypsum is used as the crude material. The industry in Manitoba shows a marked increase both in the quantity produced and the value of the product. Recently the Manitoba Gypsum Company, together with its subsidiary company, the British Columbia Gypsum Company, has been taken over by the Canada Gypsum & Alabaster, Limited, so that this company now has quarries and mills in all producing provinces except in New Brunswick.

The Province of British Columbia shows increased production from its two operating properties at Mayaro and Pakland, material from the former quarry going to the cement

Bandit Trap Is Success

POLICE experts from all parts of Great Britain went to Chiswick recently to witness a demonstration of a spiked mat for trapping motor car bandits. The new invention is contained in a suitcase and can very quickly be opened. Above is a general view of the test which shows a car just passing over the mat. It finished with all four tires badly punctured and had to stop.

BRITISH PARTY LINES FORMING

POLITICAL ACTIVITY INCREASED IN VIEW OF GENERAL ELECTION

Long List of Candidates Already Nominated—Laborists Lack Funds—Liberals Rich

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Today marks the end of the "close season" for party political warfare. The annual conference of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations opens at Great Yarmouth today, the Labor Party conference will be held at Birmingham next week, and the Liberal Federation conference at Great Yarmouth the week after next. Obviously all three conferences will be largely colored by the imminence of a general election nine months hence.

The executive committee of the Labor party today reported that it had now approved 487 candidates for the general election and hoped eventually to exceed the record total of 1924, when 514 candidates were nominated. The funds of the Labor party, however, have made a poor showing to date and it looks as if the expense of the next election will fall upon the individual constituencies.

The Liberal party seems to have plenty of money. A short time ago it was announced that the Liberals would run 500 candidates in 1929, but at the present only 224 have been adopted.

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal), in an editorial today declares that the position of Premier Baldwin as head of the Conservative party is "clearly unassailable."

It suggests that Mr. Baldwin may be astute enough to realize that a position of quietude and makes no further mistakes of his own, the other parties may do his work for him, by "cutting each other's throats."

PROTEST LODGED ON MARKETING

Grower Complains Producers Are Not Being Properly Advised By Committee of Direction

Mr. W. H. Hammond, of Ashcroft, who has been prominently identified with the move to have the Marketing Act brought to a test in the courts to settle whether the statute is intra vires of the Province or not, is in the city for a few days. Yesterday Mr. Hammond presented to members of the Government a protest against the way in which he alleged the marketing of produce was being carried on under the direction of the Committee of Direction of the Province.

Mr. Hammond a few weeks ago was in the city, and then expressed the belief that the present Government was doing what it could to have the affairs under the Marketing Act carried out in a fair way.

Mr. Hammond presented to the Government a statement with regard to the onion trade in the Okanagan, which he considered open to criticism.

Mr. Hammond feels that the producers are not being properly advised on the matter, and is making complaint to the Government in the hope that something may be done to right the situation.

An angler was describing to his friend a salmon he had caught. "How big was it?" "Biggest salmon you ever saw," said the sportsman.

"But that doesn't explain much to me," argued his friend. "The only salmon I ever saw was in a can, measuring with your hands to give me an idea."

The angler glanced at the walls of the room. "All right," he said, "but we'll have to go outdoors to do it."

OIL GOES EAST, MEAL TO SOUTH

CHANGE IN DIRECTION OF SALES OF PILCHARD PRODUCTS NOTED

Season Is Busy One at Reduction Plants on West Coast of Vancouver Island

Canadian trade commissioners in Western Europe, according to recent reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce, have been investigating the opportunity for the disposal of West Coast pilchard fisheries products in competition with other countries at the principal ports.

Meanwhile, it is stated that while most of the pilchard oil in bulk is being shipped in tank cars to Eastern Canada and the Atlantic States, for use in soap factories, the California market this year is taking an increasing quantity of meal for fertilizer manufacture.

This change in marketing conditions is the most notable variation this season. Apparently the disappointments earlier in the year are being removed by improved catches, as all vessels fitted with suitable tankage are reported to be doing well in moving the product to the markets.

No estimate has yet been formed of the probable output of 1928. About 6,000,000 gallons of oil and 13,000 tons of fish meal were produced in 1927, as compared with 2,000,000 gallons of oil and 800 tons of fish meal in 1926.

Porter Chapter, I.O.D.E.

On Tuesday the Porter Chapter, I.O.D.E., entertained at a luncheon the visiting English schoolgirls, together with their Victoria I.O.D.E. hostesses who conveyed the girls to Chemainus by car. The party left Victoria at 9 a.m., stopping in Duncan to receive the greetings of the Cowichan Chapter, I.O.D.E. Arriving at Chemainus shortly before 1 o'clock, the party was welcomed by Mrs. L. G. Hill, first vice-regent, Mrs. J. Russell Robinson, treasurer, and Mrs. Pritchard, secretary, and escorted to the Baptist Church rooms, where lunch was served. The three long tables were daintily decorated with vases of flowers in purple and gold. The centre table also had large knots and streamers of red, white and blue, a large emblem of the order and flags completing the decoration. After extending a warm welcome to the visitors, the regent, Mrs. Frank Reed, requested that a moment's silence be observed as a slight tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. R. B. Haik. Following the prayer of the order, those present proceeded to do justice to the good things provided, after which Miss Thompson, conductress of the girls, thanked the Porter Chapter for its hospitality, and also thanked their former Victoria hostesses, also saying goodbye to them. Miss E. Garratt, one of the girls, seconded Miss Thompson's remarks. Next followed a walk through the Victoria Lumber & Manufacturing Co. mill, a return to the church being made at 3:30 o'clock. Here the girls were met by cars from Nanaimo, where the party was conveyed to be the

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

LANGFORD

A very interesting meeting was held yesterday afternoon by the members of the Langford Women's Institute in their hall on Dunford Road. The president was in the chair and a number of visitors were present. Mrs. A. Conroy read the minutes and correspondence owing to the temporary absence of the secretary. The secretary had left requests that cuffs being made by members for the patients in Mill Bay Sanatorium should be left with her and that donations of jam would be appreciated again at that institution. A letter was received from Dr. Wace thanking the institute for a case of jam received during the Summer. Miss H. Kelly volunteered to see that any members who wished jars should receive them if arrangements can be made to have empty jars returned from Mill Bay, and members are asked to bring their donations to the October meeting.

In response to a request for a donation to the post office to be held in Vancouver, $5 was voted for that purpose. The librarian sent a request that all books belonging to the traveling library should be returned at once. It was agreed to form a class on glove making. This is open to others in the district who are not institute members and will be taught on the night school principle by Mrs. Bond. The Government helps to bear the expense, so that the cost to each member of the class is trifling. Particulars can be obtained from the president or secretary.

The directors were authorized to purchase coal in accordance with the kind offer made by Mr. A. Corrie, and it was unanimously agreed that the meeting wished Mrs. E. H. Phillips to continue her good work as secretary, at least until the end of the year. The members present agreed to assist the social committee to entertain Royal Oak, Colwood, Happy Valley and Luxton Institutes at a social event in the near future.

After the business was attended to Mrs. Cuthbertson gave a delightful demonstration of decorative cake icing that was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Bown, Miss Savory and Mrs. Corrie served tea on tables decorated with daisies and autumn flowers.

STRATFORD PLAYERS REACH CANADA

Celebrated Shakespearean Actors Due Here for Week Beginning November 26

The long-discussed project to bring overseas for a tour of Canada and the United States the Stratford-on-Avon Festival Company direct from the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre in Shakespeare's birthplace, assumed concrete reality last Sunday, when the company of thirty-five, attended by Archibald Flower, chairman of the board of governors of the Memorial Theatre and former Mayor of Stratford, his wife, also a former Mayoress; W. Bridges Adams, director, and W. H. Savory, general manager, landed in Montreal from the Ss. Laurentic. The tour, which will be under the direction of F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, producers of "The Miracle" and sponsors of the most distinguished foreign artists on Canadian and American stages, opens in Montreal next Monday evening.

Extending westward across Canada, down the Pacific Coast and back across the United States, the tour has been planned to include the following cities: Montreal, October 1 to 8; Kingston, October 8 to 10; Hamilton, October 11 to 13; Brantford, October 15 to 17; London, October 18 to 20; Winnipeg, October 23 to 27; Saskatoon, October 29 to November 1; Regina, November 2 to 6; Moose Jaw, November 7; Medicine Hat, November 8; Lethbridge, November 9 to 10; Calgary, November 12 to 14; Edmonton, November 15 to 17; Vancouver, November 19 to 24; Victoria, November 26 to December 1; Seattle, December 3 to 6; Tacoma, December 10 and 11; Aberdeen, December 12; Portland, December 13 to 15; San Francisco, December 17 to 23; Los Angeles, December 31 to January 12; Denver, January 15 to 19; Kansas City, January 21 to 26; St. Louis, January 26 to February 2; Chicago, February 2 to 16. Engagements thereafter will be played in Detroit, Cleveland and Toronto before the return to England late in March to begin next year's Birthday Festival.

The tour of this company will enable lovers of Shakespeare on this side of the Atlantic to share in one of the most titling memorials ever erected to human genius. The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, where his plays are presented in festival twice annually, was built and dedicated nearly forty years ago, thanks to the generosity of the late Charles E. Flower and his public-spirited fellow citizens.

Destroyed by fire in March, 1926.

TRUE TO SHAKESPEARE

The Stratford-on-Avon Festival Company lays claim to no revolutionary oracular methods in interpreting Shakespeare. Contrary to practice in recent generations, however, it presents the plays as completely and as nearly in the order Shakespeare wrote them as the customs and tastes of modern audiences will permit. In each case, whether the play be comedy, tragedy or history, the result is a dramatic absorbing interest, compelling continuity and emotionally effective climaxes.

SOCIAL EVENING ENJOYED BY CLUB

The Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, held their first social for the season on Tuesday evening at the Victoria Club Campbell Building. During the evening the members were delighted with songs by Mr. Bruce Hamilton, who sang the following numbers: "Tommy Lads" by E. J. Margeson; "The Hunter's Laid Harrow" by Geoffrey O'Hara; "For You Alone" by Henry E. O'Neil; "Life" by Pearl G. Curran; "On the Road to Mandalay" by Oley Speaks. Miss Dorothy Morton was at the piano. The remainder of the evening was spent with cards and community singing. Mrs. T. P. Waters won the bridge prize and Mr. Bruce Hamilton received the five hundred prize. Refreshments were served.

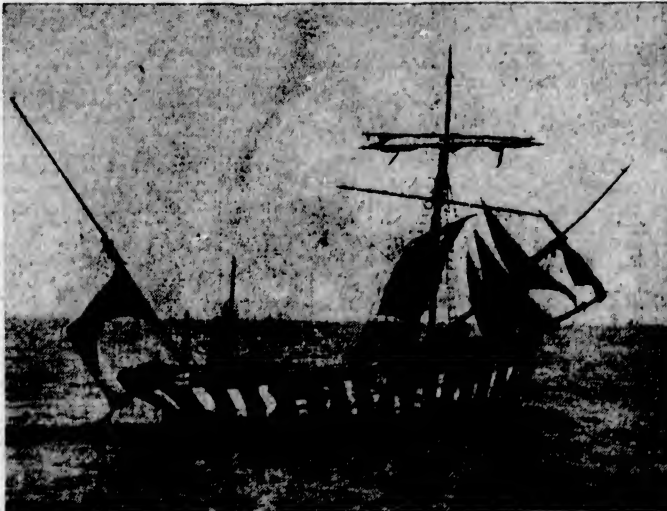

Mystery Ships!

In Next Sunday's Colonist

The Thrilling Hitherto Unwritten History of the "Q" Boats

By CAPTAIN HAROLD AUTEN, V.C., D.S.O., R.N.R.

A Series of Eight Amazing Articles With Illustrations—A New Epic of the Sea—Exciting—Perilous—Full of Thrills

One of the "Mystery" Ships, an old sailing vessel, after she was torpedoed by a German submarine.

CAPTAIN Auten, the author of these fascinating and thrilling stories about the mystery ships used by the British Navy during the war, was himself commander of a Q boat, one of the boats known popularly as the mystery ships.

He has had a long life of action and adventure. At the age of fifteen Auten ran away to sea. For a year he served without the knowledge of his father. Then he was discovered and apprenticed to serve his time on a merchantman. At the time the war broke out in 1914 he had the rating of third officer. Auten immediately signed up for naval training and was stationed aboard the battleship Hannibal. By a curious coincidence, on the day war was declared, the Hannibal met the Iron Duke, the British flagship, only two or three hours before she was fired on by a German submarine.

Auten was soon transferred to the Q boat service, where he served for the remainder of the war. In 1917, at the age of twenty-five, he was made a captain. He was the youngest captain in the British Navy and had 120 officers and men, almost all of them older than himself, under him.

It was in his action as commander of the Stockforce that he won the Victoria Cross.

MERCHANT SERVICE HONORS

He also was presented with a sword of honor by the Imperial Merchant Service Guild, and is probably the only man alive holding this honor.

Captain Auten has recently been engaged in the production of a motion picture film based on the action of the Q boats during the war. The film will shortly be released and is expected to make a great success. Auten himself appears in the picture.

He is a typical bluff and hearty English seaman. Clear-eyed and plain spoken, he makes no reference to the decorations he has received and speaks very quietly of what he has done. Captain Auten has come to America to publish a book about his service on the Q boats, or mystery ships, and to dispose of the above-mentioned film. On the way over he made $500 for the Seamen's Charity by showing the film on board the Aquatuna.

He is a member of the Strake Club, the Junior Athenaeum Club of London, a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and an Associate of the Institute of Naval Architects.

The first of the series will appear in The Colonist on Sunday, September 30.

CARDINALS' LEAD IN NATIONAL LEAGUE REDUCED

Farcical Rule Puts Edith Cummings Out Of U.S. Women's Golf

Former Champion Is Disqualified For Brushing Aside Winged Intruder From Line of Putt on Extra Hole—Termed Mid-Victorian

By WALTER TRUMBULL
Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance

In the women's national golf tournament at Virginia Hot Springs, Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, was disqualified at the nineteenth hole. This seems just a bit mid-Victorian.

There was a time when the nineteenth hole was regarded as a male prerogative, but that no longer holds good. That is the case in the pre-Victorian. Since those dark days women's rights, women Channel swimmers, women politicians, women flyers and women's golf clubs, with locker rooms attached, have come into their own.

But this nineteenth hole was on the golf course proper and Robert M. Cutting, the referee, ruled that Miss Cummings brushed the line of her putt with her hand. Probably the makers of that rule never suspected that it would cause the raising of a little cloud, like a woman's hand.

The rule was made with an eye to the imposition of a mightier fist. In the days when ethics and greens were less perfect, it sometimes happened that contestants with hands resembling those of wrestlers, Jess Willard, or, for that matter, the grass between ball and cup, the result being equivalent to the effect produced by a steam roller. But at Hot Springs the ruling was solely technical. No mere flit of the hand by Miss Cummings could be suspected of improving a lie.

SHOULD KNOW RULES
Moreover, Miss Cummings, a veteran golfer and former champion, who surely knows the rules, maintains that she was not brushing the line of the putt, but chasing away a winged intruder—some say a fly, some a bee.

For this there is ample precedent. Surely a player is not required to putt while any winged thing, such as a fly, bee, annoyed hornet, crow, ostrich, airplane or cherub is fluttering about. I have even known cherubs without wings utterly to ruin a putt.

At the Engineers' Club, in the amateur championship of 1920, Robert T. Jones, Jr., had an experience with a bee. This was on the putting green. The bee took its stance on Bobby's golf ball and made him object to being dislodged. An official finally coaxed it under a megaphone, but forgot to cover the top and the bee emerged in an extremely buzzing form of mind. As I remember, Mr. Jones missed the putt.

If the visitor at Hot Springs was a fly, it alters the case. A deer fly, for example, seldom is brushed away. It should be chloroformed, before any player or spectator imagines that he or she, as the case may be, has been struck by a stray bullet.

And if you imagine that we were indulging in any flight of fancy regarding other winged interlopers, look in the golf book for 1927. You will find it recorded there that golf in South Wales was almost broken up by crows, which swooped down upon golf balls and took them away from there. At Treadgear Park it was reported that crows stole more than one hundred balls in a week. That would have abolished golf in Scotland.

On a Los Angeles course, Dr. Earl Wells played a high pitch shot into an airplane. As he carelessly failed to hit the pilot, the machine stayed up and the ball departed at sixty miles per hour.

KILLS BIRD
Miss Maureen O'Connell killed a bird with her drive on the Blue Hills course, thus forestalling trouble at the green. Thomas Black did the same thing on the Springfield course, but in his case it was a brainteaser shot.

Ray, in one of his matches with Harry Vardon in the United States, provided much merriment by attempting to pick off the green, which he supposed to be a bit of wood or leaf, but which turned out to be a small but lively grasshopper. Ray made three attempts to pick up the intruder, but he was out-hopped each time.

Mike Brady had an experience with a butterfly, not of the Broadway variety. For some time after that Mike went around urging that all greens in championships be provided with entomologists carrying butterfly nets.

I wonder if in ancient days golfers were permitted to brush pterodactyls off the ball.

OAK BAY TO PLAY SEATTLE

Victoria Golf Club to Send Team of Thirty-Eight to Sound City for Return Match With Seattle Club

LOCALS HAVE BIG LEAD TO WORK ON

A team of thirty-eight golfers from the Victoria Golf Club will leave here Friday for Seattle, where on Saturday it will meet the Seattle Golf Club in the second half of the annual home-and-home match. The local side topped Seattle last Spring here, 3 1/2 points to 10 1/2, or 28 1/2 to 3 1/2 in the singles and the rest in the foursomes. With this margin to work the locals should come through with an easy win.

Captain Ted Owens, of the Seattle Golf Club, is marshaling his strongest forces in an effort to turn back the local onslaught.

The Victoria team follows: Alex Watson, Jack Matson, G. M. Lyle, E. A. Burton, A. V. Price, Stan Haynes, Harold Wilson, E. D. Todd, A. C. Goward, Dick Wilson, A. Musgrave, J. E. Wilson, W. Pennington, H. J. Davis (captain), H. P. Hepburn, R. Peachey, W. H. MacInnes, Ken Raymur, T. E. Lampman, R. H. Snape, Louis York, H. P. Johnson, Conie Susannet, Charles E. Wilson, T. L. Swan, W. L. Second Place Money to Big Leaguers Is Only Pin Money Compared to World's Series Coin

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager Detroit, Baseball Club.
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

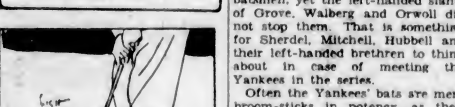

Bitter regret awaits the members of the baseball teams finishing second in the major league races. Second money, possibly $1,500 to each player, is only pin-money compared with the $5,000 to $6,000 pot of gold awarded to world series contestants, plus the attendant glory.

The bank of defeat may be all the more intense, for it is possible the second-placers may miss the series by the narrow margin of one game. The St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, all face that situation in the Heyder circuit, as do Connie Mack's warriors or the Huguenin in the American League.

In the last two months each player of the teams with a real pennant chance has figured what to do with his share of the world series cash. An investment, a new automobile, or an opportunity to pay off a mortgage on the home or farm!

POST-MORTEM
Ten or twelve closely-fought, lost games will furnish the material for the winter. A bad judgment in stretching a base hit, a badly-pitched inning, a careless and unnecessary chance in fielding, will be raked over in a retrospective mood.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

IF THE PLAYER EXCELS HERE HE IS A MATCH FOR ANYONE!

Do you think the old saying that "the golfer who can putt is a match for anyone" is true? Why? The saying alone is most certainly true, in my opinion. This becomes apparent when you consider the old point-half the shots in par golf are allotted to putting. There is no course in the world (eighteen-hole course) that doesn't allow thirty-six strokes for putting. If you dub a drive or an approach shot, it is possible to make it up on the next try, but a putt wasted is a stroke gone beyond any chance of recovery. At least, that is the way I feel about it. A golfer who really wishes to take strokes off his score can erase them more surely on the putting green than anywhere else.

HELEN PAGET LOSES MATCH IN U.S. GOLF

Ottawa Girl Defeated 3 and 2 by Mrs. Stetson—Four Former Champions Reach Quarter Finals

MISS VIRTUE ONLY CANADIAN IN PLAY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 26.—Golf stalwarts of the women held their own today in contrast to the first round of the championship, when the titleholder and a former champion were summarily removed. All four of the former champions playing in the second round won their matches and proceeded to the quarter-finals, and as there are two in each bracket, it is possible for the semi-finals to bring together four women who have stood at the head of the class.

Dorothy Campbell Hurd, who won the title in 1909, 1910 and 1924; Miss Marion Hollins, the winner in 1921; Miss Glenna Collett, champion of 1922 and 1925; and Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, the 1926 winner, remained very much in the competition.

ONE CANADIAN LEFT

Miss Maureen O'Connell, runner-up last year and medalist in this championship, Miss Virginia Van Winkle, the Seattle young "Chicago" player; Miss Dora Virtue, the only Canadian player left in the title hunt, and Miss Virginia Wilson, defeated Mrs. Stetson but, champion of Canada, are the others who have a chance to win.

Miss O'Connell, for the third day in a row, was under woman's par for the difficult Cascades course.

Summary, second round:
Miss Maureen O'Connell, Kingwood, defeated Mrs. Harley G. Higbie, Detroit, 5 and 3.

Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R.I., defeated Mrs. J. S. Disston, Philadelphia, 8 and 7.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. Louis Presler, Los Angeles, 2 and 1.

Miss Marion Hollins, New York, defeated Miss Rosalie Knapp, New York, 4 and 2.

Miss Virginia Van Winkle, Chicago, defeated Miss Helen Paget, Ottawa, Canada, 3 and 2.

Miss Virginia Virtue, Montreal, defeated Miss Helen Hicks, New York, 1 up, nineteen holes.

Miss Virginia Wilson, Chicago, defeated Mrs. G. H. Lifer, Culver City, California, 3 and 2.

THIRD ROUND
The third round tomorrow will find Miss O'Connell opposing Mrs. Hurd, with Miss Van Winkle clashing with Miss Hollins in the upper bracket, while in the lower half Miss Virtue will play Mrs. Stetson and Miss Collett and Miss Wilson will meet.

DAVIES NOT SIGHTED
Behind them came Stan Dowling, not more than a few feet to the rear to take a close third. Jim Davies, one of Canada's Olympic champions, was not in sight when the first three riders came to the finish. They were riding among the "A" class.

The "B" class was less than two minutes behind and Salomon, just a youngster, led them in. Right on Salomon's wheel came little Pete Tyson, of Victoria, riding his third heart-breaking race for the day and just now out at the finish. Crippen rode third. Their time was 16 minutes 10 seconds.

ASKEY WINS
Wee F. Askey of Victoria, brought the "C" class riders home. He came pedaling over the finish in 19.46, and the field strung out behind him. G. Jordan and D. Cooke, Jr., riding second and third respectively.

COAST LEAGUE
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—A close and bitter campaign as the Pacific Coast League has known it in twenty-five years experienced reached a climax today when the three teams went into a tie for first place honors of the second half of the split season. But eight games remain of the 1928 season. Sacramento, league leader until today, lost to Portland, while San Francisco and Hollywood moved up to the first position with victories over the missions and Los Angeles respectively.

Available records show the case without precedent in the Coast circuit. Results today gave the following standings:

Sacramento	55	38	.59
San Francisco	55	38	.59
Hollywood	55	38	.59

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26.—By losing to Portland here today, 4 to 3, Sacramento dropped back into triple tie with Hollywood and San Francisco for leadership of the Coast League. Curt Pullerton hurled the Beaver victory over Rachac and Gould. Two errors by Ray French in the first inning gave the Beavers three runs on a lone hit and they were never headed.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Hollywood kept in the running for the second place honors of the Pacific Coast League race by swamping Los Angeles, 13 to 1, under a 10-0 score to even the series. R. H. Hollywood 10 1/4.

Batteries—Wetzel and Hansen Cunningham, Pitt, Gailer, Hanna and Morton.

SEAS ADVANCING
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—San Francisco went into a triple tie for first place today by defeating the Missions, 9-4. The Seals took the lead in the fifth inning, with three runs on four hits, and after that Missions had tied the count in the ninth with a five-run rally, score the winning run in their half of the last inning.

San Francisco 9 1/4.

WILL PLAY THREE-GAME SERIES IF BALL TEAMS TIE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—In the event of a tie between the Giants and the Cardinals for the National League flag, a three-game series will be played to determine the championship. John Heydler, president of the National League, today interpreted the "three-game" series to mean the thing that refers to the world series as a "seven-game" affair, that is, three only if necessary.

Players Ruin Tablecloths Doping Races

LOOKS LIKE WE ARE GOING TO WIN THE PENNANT! NOW I CAN GET THAT PURSE MONEY!

By AL DEMARÉE

(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

There is a time-honored superstition among ball players about "spending world series money" before the team of which they are members has mathematically clinched the pennant. Too many things can happen in the closing weeks of the season during a close race and baseball itself is too uncertain a game to figure on any sure things.

Several tablecloths in the hotel dining-rooms around the circuit may be ruined by the players trying to figure out with a pencil or fountain pen just how many games the team behind them must win, if their team loses all of its remaining games, but speculation on the amount of the winner's and loser's shares and any attempt at dividing up the possible world series gold into shares is reserved until after the game.

Even the percentage column is often misleading. One team has played more games than its rival and this often plays strange tricks in the standing of the clubs.

At one time this year the Chicago Cubs, on the basis of games won and lost, were one-half game closer to first place in the National League than they were to second place, but the percentage figures said different.

DEFENDING CHAMP DEFEATED IN CITY WOMEN'S GOLF

Mrs. Philbrick Plays Strongly in Downing Mrs. Wilding 6 and 4

Ex-Titleholder's Short Game Fails Her and Oak Bay Player Has Easy Win—Three Victoria and One Uplands Remain

A new head will wear the crown of city women's champion this year. Yesterday Mrs. Wilding, the defending titleholder, went down to defeat before the sterling play of Mrs. Philbrick, a former champion, in the second round of match play at the Colwood Golf and Country Club, 6 and 4. This was expected to be one of the tightest battles of the quarter finals, but the one-sided result in favour of the Victoria Golf Club player came as a big surprise.

The title will either go to the Victoria Golf Club or Uplands, with the former having three parts the best to date. A trio of aces from the Oak Bay links remain, Miss Marion Wilson, B.C. champion; Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Philbrick, while Mrs. Boyd is the lone representative of the Uplands Club.

All the Colwood players passed out of the picture, when Miss Carey met defeat, 5 and 3, at the hands of Mrs. Hutchinson, and Mrs. Stevens went down before Mrs. Boyd in a hard-fought struggle, 1 up.

MISS WILSON GOING GOOD
Miss Marion Wilson played her usual fine game in disposing of her clubmate, Mrs. Parry, 5 and 4. The British Columbia titleholder had all her clubs working to perfection and was never in serious danger, although Mrs. Parry fought all the way.

The decisive rout of Mrs. Wilding by Mrs. Philbrick was the surprise of the day. The defending champion was badly off on her short game, and her putting was faulty. Both players' long games were good, but when it came to the short work the winner had the edge, and took advantage of every opening.

Mrs. Philbrick was three up at the turn and won three of the next five holes to end the match on the fourteenth green.

The draw today pits Miss Marion Wilson against Mrs. Hutchinson in the upper half, and Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Philbrick in the lower. The final will be played tomorrow.

THE RESULTS
Results of yesterday's play follow:
Miss M. Wilson won from Mrs. Parry, 5-4.
Mrs. Hutchinson won from Mrs. Carey, 5-3.
Mrs. Boyd won from Mrs. Stevens, 1 up.
Mrs. Philbrick won from Mrs. Wilding, 6-4.

First Flight
Mrs. J. H. Richardson won from Miss H. Wilson, 4-3.
Mrs. Rasmussen won from Mrs. Lawson at the twenty-first hole.
Miss V. Matson won from E. P. Gillespie, 6-4.
Mrs. Jackson won from Mrs. Bennett, 4-3.

Second Flight
Mrs. Macfarlane won from Mrs. Unsworth, 4-3.
Mrs. Howell won from Miss Pitts, 4-3.

Third Flight
Mrs. A. J. Gray won from Mrs. Barber-Starkey, 4-3.
Miss Benson won from Mrs. H. F. Crowe, 4-3.

Fourth Flight
Mrs. H. A. Ross won from Mrs. Hadley, 2 up.
Miss S. Spencer won from Mrs. Price at the nineteenth hole.

Fifth Flight
Mrs. Leeming won from Mrs. Semple, 4-3.
Mrs. Fraser won from Mrs. Pangman, 2-1.

TODAY'S DRAW
The draw and starting times for today's play follow:
1:00—Miss M. Wilson vs. Mrs. Hutchinson.
1:05—Mrs. Boyd vs. Mrs. Philbrick.

First Flight
1:10—Mrs. J. H. Richardson vs. Mrs. Rasmussen.
1:15—Miss Matson vs. Mrs. Jackson.

Distinguished Golfers Caught in Action

MACK'S OUTFIELD LEADING HITTERS

Famous Foursome of Miller, Comb, Simmons and French Establish Team Average of .327

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—It would not have taken more than one guess to pick the heaviest hitting outfield in baseball last year. The Yankee combination of Ruth, Meusel and Combs wrought havoc on all sides.

This season, however, its power has waned, especially since July, so much so that the Athletics now boast the heaviest attack of any of the four clubs in the closing pennant scramble.

The Yankees trio boasted a combined average of .350 with Ruth in 1927, but the latest unofficial averages show a falling off to .317, with the chief reservist, Benny Paschal, around the same notch.

The Athletics are ten points higher with a mark of .327 for the four who have seen the most service—Simmons, Miller, Comb and French.

The reversible Giant outfield forces offer considerable contrast. The strongest trio at bat averaging around .320, consists of Welsh, Ott and O'Doul.

LIKE SOUTPAWS
The combination of Welsh, Reese and Mann is barely able to muster an average of .300, but it is more effective against left-hand pitching than Young Ott is the hardest natural hitter, but Welsh and Reese have been setting a terrific pace lately.

The Cardinals have a great slugger in Chick Hefley, who hits them often and far, but it takes his excellent mark of .340 to pull the St. Louis average up to .304.

Doubtless covers a lot of ground in centre, but has not been hitting consistently. Harper and Holm, who divide the right field responsibilities, also are somewhat erratic. Defensively, the veteran Yank trio is the best of the lot. There are not two better throwing arms in the business than those of Ruth and Meusel, while Combs is a ball hawk. The loss of Eddie Roush cut down some of the defensive skill of the Giants' outfield, but Welsh has proved a capable successor.

SEEKS BIKE RECORD
Ernest Tyler of Jacksonville, Fla., is planning an attempt to lower the cross-continent bicycle record which is held by C. W. Wagner, who went from Atlantic City, N.J., to Los Angeles, a distance of 3,160 miles, in twenty days and seventeen hours.

IRISH MARATHON CHAMP WILL MAKE HOME IN CANADA

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—Jack O'Reilly, marathon champion of Ireland, has arrived here and has joined the Monarch Athletic Club, under whose colors he will compete in the York marathon on October 6, and later in the annual marathon at Portchester.

The Irish champion decided to move to Canada after meeting Canadian Olympic athletes at the Tail-teann games.

ENGLISHMEN LEAD FRENCH OPEN GOLF
Five British Entries Among First Six—Surrey Pro on Top—Tolley and Jolly Tied for Second

PARIS, Sept. 26.—British contenders, placing five of their number inside the first six, led the field today after the first thirty-six holes in the French open golf championship at Laboulle.

Henry Kinsch, Surrey pro, led the field with 72-69—141, while Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, with 74-68—142, was tied for second place with H. C. Jolly, who scored 73-69—142.

Next in order: Henry Cotton, England, 144; M. Duillemagne, France, 145; George Duncan, England, 145; Aubrey Boomer, France, 147; Rene Gollan, France, 148.

TEX RICKARD WILL BACK DOG RACING AT MIAMI BEACH
MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 26.—Tex Rickard has been revealed as a financial backer of a dog racing track and sports arena to be operated at Miami Beach this winter for an exclusive clientele.

George R. K. Carter, in announcing the projected enterprise here last night said the track and arena would be constructed immediately at a cost of about $250,000. A clubhouse also was announced as a part of the plan.

Carter said the track would be open for business January 15 and would be operated strictly within the Florida gambling laws. Gate receipts, he said, would provide the source of revenue.

THREE SOCCER GAMES CARDED FOR SATURDAY

Six Teams in Senior Division Appear to Be Evenly Matched for This Week's Competition

WESTS WILL PLAY DOCKERS AT HILL

The local followers of the round ball game will, undoubtedly, witness a better brand of soccer next Saturday than on the opening date, when three games are scheduled to take place. The exhibitions on the opening date proved to the fans that they are in for a good season of football.

The various teams appear to be fairly well matched, and, as the season progresses and the players round into shape, the games will undoubtedly improve. It was plainly evident on their initial appearances that the players were not at all familiar with each other's play, and as a result some one-sided scores were registered.

Victoria City eleven, fresh after a decisive win over the Saanich Thistles, last year's champions, will entertain the newly-organized Westholmes at the Royal Athletic Park, with P. C. Payne handling the whistle. The City has a formidable squad this year and is expected to provide stiff opposition for all the clubs. Westholmes met defeat last week at the hands of the Wests.

At Beacon Hill Esquimalt and Victoria West will battle. Both these teams have forward lines practically composed of youngsters, most graduating this season to the senior ranks. The former club has five of last year's junior team on its line-up. Alcock will look after the game.

The Saanich Thistles will be at home to the Five C's. Both these teams got away on the wrong foot, losing last week and will be out to chalk up their first win. McMillan will officiate.

All games will commence at 3 o'clock sharp, and the first named club is the home team.

North Saanich Golf

George C. Wemyss, of Sidney, won the Charles S. Birch Cup at the North Saanich Club over the weekend with a net 62. J. J. White and B. Blanson were tied for second place with a net 64, with the latter winning the play-off by one stroke.

The Batty Cup for the best gross score went to H. C. Layard, of Deep Cove.
The ladies' monthly medal was won by Mrs. J. McIlraith with a gross 84 and a net 70.

CHICAGO CUBS AND WHITE SOX TO PLAY IN ANNUAL SERIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The Chicago Cubs, having failed to win the National Pennant, today challenged the White Sox for the championship of Chicago.

The series, which was not played last year, will be renewed October 1, at the White Sox Park.

The last series, played in 1926, was won by the Sox. Last year the Cubs refused to challenge the Comiskey team, stating that the team was worn out by a hectic finish in the National League pennant race.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENS SATURDAY

First Time in History That Six Teams Will Swing Into Action on Opening Date

Now that the first Division soccer teams have opened their regular schedule last Saturday in a somewhat successful manner, six teams of the Junior Football League will swing into action next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the various local grounds.

This will be the first time that six teams will make their appearance before the local fans, and the youngsters expect to have one of the most successful seasons since the league's inauguration.

Saturday's card is as follows:
James Island vs. Oakland, at James Island.
Y.M.C.A. vs. Esquimalt, at Victoria West Park.
Bapcos vs. Victoria City, at Central Park.

UNUSUAL SCENES AT ST. ANDREWS

Famous Links Lit with Fireworks as Midnight Foursome Celebrates Election of Captain

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, Sept. 26.—Electricity, Chinese lanterns, torches, rockets and miscellaneous fireworks lit the old golf links of St. Andrews at midnight last night, when a foursome was played to celebrate the election of Angus Hambro to the captaincy of the Royal and Ancient Club. A gallery of 2,000 watched the fate of members who blindly fell into a brook which the lights failed to reveal.

Douglas Grant and Major A. G. Barry, former British amateur champion, opposed Herbert Taylor and Vivian Poelock, prominent members of the Royal and Ancient Club in the foursome. After the first hole it was decided that the artificial lighting was insufficient to play through the whole round, so the contestants skipped to the eighteenth green, where a great battery of electric lights was assembled. Grant and Barry won, but the official score still is a mystery.

City Police Court

Six Chinese were charged in the city police court yesterday with being inmates of a common gaming house known as the Dai You Club, located on the west side of Pan Tao Alley. The accused all pleaded guilty through counsel, Mr. W. C. Moreby, K.C., and were each fined $10 by Magistrate George Jay.

A fine of $5 was imposed on W. S. Corbett who failed to produce his driver's licence on the demand of a police officer.

James Woods was fined $10 for driving his motor car to the common danger on Quadra Street on September 21. Motorcycle Constable Percy W. Richards related the circumstances of the case to the court.

JACK MULHALL HEADS BIG CAST

Many Screen and Stage Celebrities Appear in "Butter and Egg Man" at Capitol

With one exception, former stage celebrities compose the cast of first National's screen version of the famous play, "The Butter and Egg Man." Jack Mulhall, noted for years in "legitimate" and vaudeville, is featured in the title role of the picture, which heads the bill at the Capitol Theatre today, Friday and Saturday. His beautiful young leading lady, Greta Nissen, however, earned her fame in pictures, although her first American appearance was as a dancer in Winthrop Ames' production of "Begger on Broadway." Sam Hardy was played every variety of speaking stage part in his career behind the footlights, although it was in vaudeville that he became particularly celebrated. William Demarest, who is paired with Hardy as one of the play producers of the story, is of the famous vaudeville team of Demarest and Collette. The plot of "The Butter and Egg Man" takes the spectator behind the scenes of play production in New York City: into the offices of producers, the dressing-rooms of stars, and behind the scenes of theatres. It also shows how plays are "tried out" on the stage in town near New York.

The stage attractions for today, Friday and Saturday offer a programme that is entirely new. Frederick Stone, the famous Irish tenor, in song selections; Peggy and Vincent, a comedy team whose singing is quite different, and Sandberg and Fox, the well known comedy dance duo. Harold Bechtel, the singing M.C., and the Concert Orchestra will also feature a new and snappy programme.

A Slave to Duty Does His Stuff on Columbia's Screen

To a reporter, there is no duty greater than that he owes his newspaper. No matter how dangerous his task, or how self-sacrificing the deed, the reporter of a newspaper is invariably a slave to duty. This is essentially the theme of "Let 'er Go, Gallegher," the Richard Harding Davis narrative of newspaper life in which a bright office boy plays the stellar part. Junior Coghlan, who was featured in "The Country Doctor," "The Yankee Clipper" and "A Harp in Rock," is seen in the title role and Harrison Ford is cast as a reporter, around whom the love interest centres. Their portrayals, it is said, are excellent. It will be shown at the Columbia Theatre today.

"Helen of Troy" Lives Again on Variety's Screen

One of the most difficult, and at the same time one of the most interesting tasks of its kind in motion pictures, was that of designing costumes for "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," now showing at the Variety Theatre. So declares Max Reed, studio costume artist, who designed the costumes. Reed made more than 100 drawings of costumes for the picture, including beautiful gowns for Helen, royal dress and armor for soldiers of every rank, garments for slave girls and palace attendants, and even a nightgown for Menelaos. Maria Corda, Lewis Stone and Ricardo Cortez play the three featured roles in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy." Made

STIRRING DRAMA TOLD ON SCREEN

"The Foreign Legion." Showing at Dundee Theatre. Gripping Story of Algeria.

The Dominion Theatre will present the Foreign Legion, Universal's dramatic screen adaptation of "The Red Mirage," I. A. R. Wyllie's sensational novel, as its feature picture beginning today. This picture should be good news for local motion picture enthusiasts, as the picture is heralded as one of the finest ever produced. The novel was a gripping story of love and duty, set against the dramatic background of the French Foreign Legion in Algeria. The picture is said to excel the book in the colorful presentation of the lives and adventures, the passions and the impulses of these iron soldiers and the steady discipline under which they live. Norman Kerry and Lewis Stone are co-starred in the picture. Both are favorites and both are said to have exceptional roles in this picture. Opposite them are two popular women, Mary Nolan and June Marlowe, one the exotic, the other the adorable sweetheart type. Miss Nolan is remembered as one of the most glorious of the famous Ziegfeld Follies. When she left the Follies she went to Germany and started her screen career there. "The Foreign Legion" is one of her best roles since she returned to America.

COLISEUM Last night at the Theatre Coliseum was just one laugh after another and has a stronger appeal than any of the other bills presented by this talented little group of players. Mr. Jack Holt and Miss Dorothy Raymond. Mr. Jaxon is back at his old time and place, as a juvenile all through the play, and one first glimpse at the popular star brings memories of years ago when he was at the Prince's. A good show and a real good company, everyone an artist. And just before closing let just a little space be given to little Peggy Lewis. Her character number is well worth seeing. On the screen is William Haines in "West Point." This is his latest picture and deals with the life of two boys at West Point. This show is well worth seeing if one has a sense of humor at all.

PLAYHOUSE A review of the most famous of the night clubs of Montmartre and the student quarter of Paris is one of the smart features of "French Dressing," the Allan Dwan production for First National Pictures, which Robert Kane is presenting at the Playhouse Theatre. All of the latest and liveliest innovations of Paris are shown in the clubs presented in this picture, which features H. B. Warner, Olive Brock, Lois Wilson and Lilian Tashman.

"Bits and Pieces" by George Robey Comes To Royal October 1

The realism in some of the funniest scenes in "Bits and Pieces," which comes to the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday, October 1, for a week's engagement, is worthy of well staged drama. George Robey, London's greatest comedian, "represents" his own stage effects, and he insists that they shall convey a realistic touch in even their greatest burlesque moments. Thus it is that the Picaresque scene he has included in his popular revue has become one of the greatest hits in London showdom. The curtain rises on Picaresque Circus. It is not just a suggestion of this famous old spot—the whole setting is complete. Two flower sellers are sitting there, and as usual when the rush hour is over, they are chatting. Bairnfather and Belcher have caught and placed on record the appearance and chat of these ladies. It has been left for Mr. Robey and his leading lady, Miss Marie Blanche, to bring them before far-off people in the life. As may be fancied, Mr. Robey and Miss Blanche get a tremendous lot of fun out of this scene for the audience, but it is just one of a dozen scenes which have kept London laughing for a year. "Bits and Pieces" comes clear across Canada from Montreal and will be presented on Monday, Tuesday and twice on Wednesday, when it is to be packed in the property trunks, and out comes a new show, also written and prepared by Mr. Robey himself "Between Ourselves," which he will present here on Thursday and for the balance of the week.

DISTRIBUTION OF ELLIS ESTATE IS SUBJECT OF ORDER

In an application made in Supreme Court Chambers before Mr. Justice Murphy yesterday, determination of a clause in the will of the late Mr. Thomas Ellis, who died in Victoria in 1918, was sought by Mr. Cuyler A. Holland and Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster, executors of the estate.

The testator died possessed of considerable property, part of which was to be held in trust for his children and other relatives, by the creation of first and second trusts, and the payment out of annuities pending the establishment of the trusts. The executors asked a ruling from the court as to what course was to be followed in the construction of the will in this regard.

His lordship agreed to the provision of trust funds of $40,000 for each of three daughters of the testator: Violet E. Ellis, Julia E. Ellis and Kathleen W. Ellis. The court reserved other points in relation to the payment of allowances.

Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster represented the executors, and Messrs. E. C. Mayers, K.C., F. G. Powkes, A. R. Wootton and W. H. M. Haldane appeared for the beneficiaries.

MR. HINCHLIFFE ON B.C. SCHOOLS

COMPLIMENT PAID TO PRE-DECESSOR—AIMS OUTLINED TO TRUSTEES

Lieutenant-Governor Also Addresses Convention—Next Ten Years to Be Historic

VICTORIA, Sept. 26.—"I realize that I occupy the position of Minister of Education not for one political party but for all, and I want to be able to satisfy myself when I lay down the reins of this office that no district, that no child has been deprived of any advantage for political reasons."

With this introduction, Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Tuesday night addressed the school trustees of British Columbia in convention here. Mr. Hinchliffe paid tribute to the interest in education taken by the former minister, Dr. J. D. MacLean, who had carried a heavy burden upon his shoulders. The work of this department was not easy.

Of all departments of government, the minister declared, none was more important than that of education. This department conserved the greatest asset of all, the young people of the province, and its work was to develop and build up a nation.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR
His Honor Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce conveyed his appreciation of the great work which the trustees of British Columbia were doing.

His Honor told of his recent trip to Prince Rupert and Fort St. James, dwelling upon the great work of the Hudson's Bay Company, carrying on development for 250 years in the northern country.

"I do not know anything more inspiring than, to go through the province and see the great development that is going on," he said.

"Today, we are on the eve of a great prosperity in Canada. The bankers and heads of industry are telling the same story, and what a story it is going to be in the next five or ten years. It is going to require hard work, but as long as you can see daylight through your work you feel happy."

"You have to aid your statement to solve your marketing problems. I am certain that the intelligent use of this valley can solve these difficulties and go forward to the great destiny divine Providence intended this country to enjoy."

She (thoughtfully)—"Why do so many women rest their chins on their hands when they are thinking?"
He (brutally)—"To hold their mouths shut so that they won't disturb themselves."

Members of Arctic Patrol Return to Civilization

THE Arctic patrol of the Royal Canadian Air Force has just returned from a fourteen months' expedition to the territory around Hudson Bay. The patrol consisted of four planes, officers and men of the Air Force and an officer and several men of the corps of signallers in charge of the wireless communications. A careful study of weather and flying conditions made by the members of the patrol has resulted in the gathering of a great deal of information for the scientific study of aviation in the Arctic. The above pictures show: 1. The first picture ever taken of an aeroplane flying over Hudson Straits. One of the giant Fokker planes of the patrol starting out on a day's flight. 2. Flight-Lieutenant T. A. Lawrence, commander of the expedition, with a husky pup. 3. One of the collapsible boats to which Flying Officer Lewis owes his life. 4. The entire engine of one of the planes being taken out to be repaired. The members of the patrol did all their own repair work. 5. The officers at Wakeham Bay, left to right, Flying Officers Carr-Harris and Coghill, Flight-Lieutenant T. A. Lawrence, and W. G. K. Clothier, medical officer.

CITY WILL LOSE EARNST BOOSTER

Mr. H. N. Fynn to Leave Chamber Post for Appointment With Vancouver Board of Trade

Victoria will lose one of its most industrious and capable boosters when Mr. H. Norman F. Fynn, assistant secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, leaves this city next month to take an important post with the Vancouver Board of Trade. On the Mainland, Mr. Fynn will act as one of the Board of Trade secretaries in association with various bureaus of the organization.

Mr. Fynn has been connected with the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce in Victoria for the past nine years, and his knowledge of business, financial and general conditions in Victoria and all over the province have led him to be a factor in different campaigns for the fostering of city and provincial interests.

A resident of this city since 1911, except for a period spent overseas during the Great War, Mr. Fynn is well known in active business and publicity circles, and his removal to the Terminal City will be felt as a substantial loss in many quarters here.

Mr. Fynn, during his early association with the old Board of Trade in Victoria, was especially connected with the retail section of the organization, and proved an indispensable worker. In 1921, he was one of the leading spirits in connection with the reorganization of the Board of Trade, at which time it assumed the title of Chamber of Commerce. He had always been an energetic promoter of every interest and activity of the Chamber.

During the last few years, Mr. Fynn has given special attention to the industrial group of the Chamber and to the growing automobile dealers' section. The industrial group, composed of many of the city's leading business men, has paid tribute on several occasions to his splendid executive ability.

Mr. Fynn's other activities have included active participation in the promotion of the home products exhibitions here, and his achievements in connection with those fairs have been outstanding.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S MOTHER LEAVES LIFE

Forty years ago Lord Birkenhead's father, Frederick Smith, died a few weeks after he had become mayor of Birkenhead, and Mrs. Smith was left with a small income to bring up her family of five children. She sent "Young Freddie" through Oxford, and guided and encouraged him throughout his career.

"THE RING"

By MAY WYNNE

(Author of "The Golden Hour," "If Riches Increase," "Other Men's Shoes," Etc.)

CHAPTER XXVI

Footsteps—footsteps. Not echoing with firm ring, but falling softly—stealthily!

Who were those who chased each other amongst the shadows?

Footsteps—footsteps. Then a long-drawn breath.

A darkly-clad figure in draperies belonging to the fashion of the East slipped out into the hall.

It was the woman Sana. She stood, listening.

Where was Mito? Had—those others returned?

She and Mito had been left to prepare, whilst her mistress went on to Skivington.

She ought to be back. A long sigh escaped her.

Footsteps.

She heard them and trembled.

A faint grey light shone through the great window on the stairs. A shape was visible, moving towards her, separating from the shadows.

It was Po Chung.

His yellow features were twisted in hate, as he crept he held his long crooked knife in his right hand. His eyes were fixed on those of the woman.

Nearer—nearer.

She knew he would have no pity. Turning, she fled towards the only room where she knew she might find light and safety.

Maise, kneeling with clasped hands upon the hearth, turned as the door opened, and gave a loud cry.

Sana, like some terrified doe, rushed in with Po Chung at her heels. Po Chung with murder in his eyes—a wicked, glittering knife in his upturned hand.

Sana must have been struck down in death had not Maise rushed between.

The knife descended, but missed its mark, though it ripped the sleeve of Maise's coat and left a red line beneath.

Then—Sana had turned and flung herself upon the man. But he was strong. Again that evil kris rose and fell. The woman cried—sobbing. Maise struck with all her force, but felt the grip of that terrible hand on her shoulder. Sana lay still.

Maise, half propped by a fallen chair, gazed fascinated into those menacing eyes.

Was she going to die?

As from afar she heard a shout—many hurrying footsteps. Her cry had been heard—so had that of Sana.

Lower swooped that crooked blade, but a lean, brown hand was stretched above it. Mito the Lolo had caught it just in time.

With a shriek of fury Po Chung struggled, wrenching himself free. Murray Mallerton, white with fear, had lifted Maise away and placed her in a big chair near the fire. Already he was busy binding her wounded arm.

Mito the Lolo had the kris—and he saw Sana lying inert. With a scream he would have rushed at Po Chung, but the latter was too quick for him. The door was open—an ice-cold draught told of another door beyond also open. Po Chung gave one glance round—saw those who filled the room—and the next moment had gone—with Mito and Lolo like some giant sleuth-hound in pursuit.

It was Avise Banberry who stooped over Sana. The woman had been cruelly stabbed in the shoulder and had swooned, but she was not dead. A grizzled stranger came forward and helped to carry her to the bed. Murray, having bandaged his sweetheart's arm, was soon busy with his second patient. The wound, he said, was not likely to be dangerous.

Quisher, who stood defiant on the hearth, did not speak till the two men came back towards him.

Then it was at Avise Banberry he looked.

"You have the ring," he said.

"You have not finished with Po Chung yet."

As if in answer a face appeared at the window. In the growing daylight it was just possible to recognize the Tibetan, but his face was twisted by a hatred terrible to see. Very softly he was contriving to raise the casement. But he did not seem to wish to enter. Statelike he stood to listen. The grizzled stranger glanced towards him and motioned to Murray to let him be. It was this man who replied to Glashier.

"I am Richard Banberry," he said.

"I returned to Tibet from England many weeks ago. I met my wife—at Skivington—an hour since."

"You?" he stammered. "You?"

"Yes," said Banberry. "I. No! I know you were unaware of the fact. It was our purpose you should remain ignorant of it."

"The ring of Narva was taken back by me—not indeed to far Tibet, but to a place agreed upon by me and Aro Lung. Aro Lung brought to the rendezvous the price of that ring. As you know, the secret treasure set aside for such reward was great. It is safe now in London and elsewhere. My wife and I are rich beyond the dreams of avarice. Thanks—and" he looked with a smile towards Murray and Maise—"to these friends who have every right to share our good fortune."

Glashier moistened his dry lips.

"A ring of Narva," he muttered.

"The ring of Narva," he said.

Maise, from where she sat, saw Po Chung crane forward. Never had she seen anything so intense as the expression on that wrinkled yellow face. The man was listening for Banberry's answer as a man listens to the pronouncing of his own doom.

Banberry smiled.

"It is a long story," he said, "and would probably be told better by Aro Lung, who has returned to that monastery, there to be welcomed as the hero who claims the highest place and rank for his service. I do not think the ring of Narva is ever likely to disappear again from the particular shrine to which it belongs. Nor do I suppose any of us wish to see it."

Glashier rose heavily to his feet. His face was pale and sullen, his eyes morose.

Tell him it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

GOLD DISCOVERY

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—A special dispatch to The Mail and Empire stated that an important gold discovery has been made on Lost Bay, on Clearwater Lake, in the Red Lake mining district. The discovery is said to be eight miles southeast of the Jackson Manion mine.

Robert Downey, Toronto mining expert, is reported to be in charge of the development of the claims which, it is reported, show very rich ore across a width of fourteen feet and a length of 200 feet in a great dome 700 by 300 feet.

Without looking to left or right, the American quitted the room. As he did so, Maise forced herself for the last time to look towards the place where Po Chung crouched.

She wished she had not done so afterwards. Despair, rage and hatred were depicted in that fiendish countenance. But it surprised Maise to notice that Po Chung was not looking at any of his particular enemies—his gaze was fixed on the retreating figure of Glashier, whose last words he had overheard.

Silently the Tibetan quitted his place, stealthily he crept from view of those in the room where lamplight and daylight blended together. Unseen by Maise and the others, he stole up the shrubbery walk.

Glashier, having lighted a cigar and started the car, was slowly driving down the private road. Po Chung, waiting among the bushes, leapt forward and with an agility which would have rivalled that of a cat, swung himself up behind.

So Rodney Glashier passes from our view—a sullen figure of disappointment—gloom, carrying all unknown to himself the crouching form with yellow face wreathed in a smile of malign hate. The hatred which—primarily vented against an adverse destiny—finds its object easily enough. And Po Chung's lean, clawlike fingers nestle lovingly around the curved handle of his kris reclaimed from Mito the Lolo.

Ol' Mistah Buzzard Says Good-by

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was just beginning his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. He was just high enough to see over the tree-tops. On his favorite perch in a tall dead tree in the Green Forest sat Ol' Mistah Buzzard. His great wings were lifted and held out for the air to blow through them and for the warmth of the Jolly Little Sunbeams to get under them. Ol' Mistah Buzzard was facing the south. At least, he had his head turned that way. In his eyes there was a faraway look.

Sammy Jay, happening along that way, noticed that faraway look. "Good morning, Ol' Mistah Buzzard," said Sammy most politely. "You look as if you have something on your mind."

"Good morning, Brer Jay, good morning," replied Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "Ah have got something on mah mind."

"I hope it isn't anything serious," said Sammy.

"Did y' notice that it was rather cold last night?" said Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "Ah done sleep polly. Yes, suh, Ah done sleep polly. Ah reckons Ah done gwine to sleep polly from now on unless Ah gits away from here right quick. The fact is, Brer Jay, Ah reckons it's time for me to be gone."

"Going where?" inquired Sammy Jay, pretending not to know.

"Way down in the Sunny South, whar Ah done come from," replied Ol' Mistah Buzzard.

"I suppose you mean that you are getting ready to leave us for the winter," said Sammy.

"That's it, Brer Jay, that's it," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "Ah can't stand cold weather. No, suh, Ah can't stand cold weather."

"Is Mrs. Buzzard going with you?" inquired Sammy.

"She done gone already," replied Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "She started yesterday."

"Why didn't you go with her?" inquired Sammy.

Ol' Mistah Buzzard folded his wings and scratched his bald head thoughtfully. "Ah reckon," said he, "that it's cos Ah'm jes' nacherly lazy. Then Ah hates to leave mah fren's. But las' night settled it. Ah can't stand Ol' Jack Frost. No, suh, Ah can't stand Ol' Jack Frost. So Ah's gwine to stay right away. Will y' do something for me, Brer Jay?"

"Good morning, Brer Jay," "Good morning," replied Ol' Mistah Buzzard

"Of course I will replied Sammy. What is it?"

"Jes' say good-by to all mah fren's for me," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "Ah jes' can't wait to say good-by to 'em mahself."

Sammy promised that he would say good-by to Ol' Mistah Buzzard's friends. Ol' Mistah Buzzard once more spread his great wings. He shook himself. Then he left his perch and his great wings began beating the air.

"Good-by, Mr. Buzzard, good-by!" screamed Sammy. "We'll all be looking for you next Spring."

Ol' Mistah Buzzard continued to flap his great wings and slowly mounted into the air. After he was up a little way he stopped flapping. His great wings were held out without motion, so far as Sammy could see, and Ol' Mistah Buzzard began to sail in a circle. Round and round he went and up and up, and all the time he was moving to the south. Sammy watched him until he was just a speck. "I don't know how he does it," said Sammy. "No, sir, I don't know how he does it. I wish I could sail that way. Well, we'll miss Ol' Mistah Buzzard. I hope nothing happens to him. We certainly would miss him if he didn't return in the Spring."

Rally Service Held By Young People Of Duncan United

DUNCAN, Sept. 26.—The Young People's League of the United Church held its rally service in the church rooms on Monday evening. The increasing interest in the work of this organization was evidenced by an attendance of over seventy-five, including some visitors and members of the C.O.L.T. group. The programme arranged by the central committee of the Religious Education Council was followed. Mr. Arnold Platt presided for the first part of the programme, which included an address by Dr. Bissett on "The Case Against Alcohol." The members were pleased to welcome Dr. Bissett, and his address was most instructive. The Misses Edith and Etta Hood gave a vocal duet, followed by an address by Rev. G. Young, of Esquimalt, whose subject was "The Challenge to Youth." The president, Mr. A. M. Dirom, took the chair after the addresses were delivered. Miss G. Owens, a former member of the local organization, in a short address, and Mr. E. Burkholder, with a few words, accepted the challenge for the league members, all present rising and repeating the promise required pledged themselves to the declaration of service. Owing to the large attendance the pledge cards were not signed at the meeting, but will be handed in later in the month. The service was impressive throughout and the president and officers are expecting a helpful and successful winter's work. On October 1 members of the league will have a banquet in the church hall, when prospective members will be entertained.

COURTENAY HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

COURTENAY, Sept. 26.—The farmhouse of Mr. Hugh Morrison, on the edge of the city, was very badly damaged by fire at 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Morrison lit the kitchen fire as usual and returned to bed. Shortly after, she heard a crackling sound and found the kitchen in flames, which quickly spread to other parts of the house. Malcolm, the eldest son, on going to the telephone to give the alarm found it out of order, and on running to a neighbor's house, found the phone there in a like condition. The alarm was therefore somewhat delayed and, although the fire department made a quick response, the flames had a good hold. With the help of neighbors a considerable amount of the household effects were carried out of the burning building to safety, but the house, part of which was old, is badly damaged.

In the absence of wind the barn and outbuildings were in little danger, and the fire was confined to the dwelling. It is probable that the family will occupy the house of Mr. Morrison's mother, Mrs. Henry McQuillan, on the Lake Trail Road, until they are able to rebuild. It is understood that the property is covered by insurance.

KILLED BY ROCK WHILE AT WORK

Victim of Nanaimo Mining Accident Had Been Resident Here for Fifteen Years

NANAIMO, Sept. 26.—It was a very tragic accident that occurred yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when Thomas Smith, a well-known resident of Nanaimo, while at work in the Reserve Mine, was killed by a heavy fall of rock, which struck Mr. Smith while he was in the act of digging a post hole near the face of the workings. The late Mr. Smith was a native of Ireland, and had resided here for the past fifteen years, and for the past few years had resided on Douglas Avenue, South Five Acres. Deceased was thirty-seven years of age, and a prominent member of the Odd Fellows' Lodge, and previous to entering the mines was employed by Mr. Joseph Carr as taxi driver when Mr. Carr operated the taxi office on Chapel Street. Besides his widow and two sons he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, of Vancouver; nine brothers, James living in this city; Joseph, of Scotland; Samuel, of Ireland; William, David, George, Robert, John and Gardner, residing in Vancouver; one sister, Mrs. John Riddick, also of Vancouver.

Sidney United Church Young People Meet

SIDNEY, Sept. 26.—The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of the Sidney United Church was held in the Wesley Hall on Tuesday evening. Ivy Hill had charge of the opening services, followed by a ten minute devotionary talk by Mr. Lees. The president then occupied the chair and opened the meeting, at which there was a very enthusiastic attendance. Final arrangements were made for the rally day programme to be held next Sunday, the Young People being in charge of the service. Mr. N. Fralick gave a very inspiring address on war. An open discussion followed.

A social half-hour in charge of Merna Lane was then enjoyed and the meeting dispersed to meet next Tuesday evening, when the meeting will be in charge of the literary committee, who have invited Mr. G. Smith, principal of the North Saanich School, to give an address.

PROPERTY OWNERS OBJECT TO TANKS

Alternative Site Offered to Shell Company at Port Alberni by City Council

PORT ALBERNI, Sept. 26.—At the last regular meeting of the City Council an option to purchase certain property from the city was granted to the Shell Oil Company, on the condition that the company erect tanks for the distribution of oil. Unfortunately this property was near the centre of the city, and the taxpayers of that vicinity were immediately up in arms, fearing a depreciation in the value of the holdings.

A petition has been in circulation demanding that the city withdraw this option, and so insistent has the demand come that yesterday afternoon a special meeting of the council was held for the purpose of reconsidering the matter. The aldermen in a body, accompanied by a representative of the company, made an inspection of the property. It was decided to offer to the company certain property situated at the corner of Third Avenue and Kingsway, in lieu of that formerly granted. If the Shell Company's engineers are of the opinion that this new site is suitable, it will in all probability be accepted.

OBTAIN HALL FOR GUIDES AND SCOUTS

Sidney Organizations Now Have Own Building—Funds Needed to Finish Work

SIDNEY, Sept. 26.—The Brownie and Guide Association held a meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. King, Third Street. There was a good attendance of members. The president, Mrs. G. Goddard, occupied the chair and opened the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, and routine business brought up and disposed of. Owing to the resignation of the secretary, Mrs. Brethour, Mrs. Le Vack was appointed to take her place.

A report was given concerning the new building, the Guide and Scout Hall, for which a campaign to raise the necessary funds has been carried on for some time. The old C.N.R. station house on First Street has been purchased, and has been moved to the lot already donated on the corner of Basin Avenue and Third Street. The building will be repaired, shingled and painted, and will make a fine meeting place and recreation hall for Scouts and Cubs, Guides and Brownies. This new hall, it is felt, will fill a long-deared want in the community, and the work of the associations will be carried on from week to week without interruption. Many new suggestions and ideas were presented for the purpose of raising additional funds for finishing the work on the building, and were tabled for further reference.

An Irish county council was in session over the provision of a new bridge in place of an old one. These extraordinary propositions were submitted at the meeting by one of the members:

- 1-That the old bridge be removed and a new one built in its place.
- 2-That the materials of the old one be used in the construction of the new bridge.
- 3-That the old bridge be left standing until the new one is completed.

Judge: "But why do you wish this?"

Member: "Fair plaintiff. Well, I'm thinking of getting married."

FISH BY-PRODUCT INDUSTRY LAGGING

Percentage of Utilization Below That of Other Countries, Figures Show

Canada is lagging far behind some other countries, especially Germany, United States and England, in the full utilization of its fish resources, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior. After a careful investigation of the economic waste in the fishing industry it is pointed out that hundreds of thousands of tons of raw material are annually going to waste for want of proper organization and fish by-product industries to convert the non-saleable portions of edible fish into economic products and to make similar use of immense quantities of wolf and rober fish such as the shark and dogfish, which prey on the valuable food fishes on both coasts.

The waste of Canadian fish products, it is stated in a recent report on the utilization of fish by-products, which the Natural Resources Intelligence Service has prepared in co-operation with the fisheries branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, has been patent enough to show that if proper organization were carried out to fully utilize the materials at hand, fishermen's and manufacturers' profits would jump, the large imports of oil would be unnecessary, exports would have a lively market, agriculture would benefit largely from the fertilizer and a more bounteous and less wasted harvest would be won from the sea, whose crops never fail and entail no expense till ready to reap.

The report points out that the fish by-product industry of Canada has been greatly developed in the last two years, but mainly in the utilization of pickards for oil and meal. Over a score of plants are now operating on pickard reduction along the British Columbia coast. In other directions, however, the progress is not such as the conditions warrant. In 1918 inquiry showed that of British Columbia salmon, 46 per cent of the fish was wasted; of the Canadian lobster, 75 per cent; of Atlantic dried fish, 45 per cent; that halibut heads equal to one-sixth of this fish's weight were thrown away and that 25 per cent of the total of fish caught was unused.

WASTE TOO GREAT

In 1928 the waste of Canadian fish is still far too great, though lessening perceptibly. The value of by-products in 1923 was 12 per cent of the total value of the fisheries. By 1928 this percentage had increased to 3.66 per cent. For 1927 preliminary figures, just to hand as a substantial increase to 5.82 per cent. That this amount is still far too small is indicated by the fact that in the United States the value of by-products in 1925 was equal to 15 per cent of the total value of the fisheries. A striking example of the loss to Canada in not fully utilizing its available material is in the export of fish offal to other countries for processing. The value of exports of this item in 1927 was $24,773; if processed in Canada it is stated the value would have been raised at least fivefold, an economic loss to Canada of a million dollars, not to mention the advantage which would have been afforded in the employment of Canadian workmen. That the value of the fish by-product industry has risen from $32,000 in 1925 to $35,000 in 1926 and to $255,000 in 1927.

Canada's fish by-products were worth $2,877,000 in 1927, or under 6 per cent of the total value of the fish marketed. Had the by-products been worth 15 per cent of the total, as appears reasonable to expect, if the industry is properly organized, the value would have been over $2,000,000, indicating a loss to Canada of over $5,000,000.

LOSS TO BE AVOIDED

Can this tremendous economic loss to the Dominion be overcome? The Resources Service believes that it can be, and it is to encourage the establishment of reduction plants that the monograph on fish by-products has been prepared for those interested in this phase of development. An interesting analogy is drawn with the meat-packing industry which it is stated furnished a splendid example in efficiency in recovery of by-products. The up-to-date plant markets every bit of the carcass; forty-eight medicinal preparations are made from membranes and glands, the fine hairs growing inside the ears of cattle provide the artist with brushes, and the gallstones are shipped as talismans to Japan. Similarly every bit of the fish carcass can be used to prepare oils and meal, fish guano or fertilizer, fish glue, gelatine and skin, glass, pearl essence and poultry grit, etc.

Complete utilization of fish waste can, however, only be brought about with proper organization for collection and transportation of the material to reduction plants. On the Pacific Coast such plants are now located at many cannery centres. In the Atlantic region development in fish reduction has not been so great. By providing the ratio of by-product value to total value of the fisheries in 1926 was: British Columbia, 5.0 per cent; Quebec, 2.4 per cent; Nova Scotia, 2.3 per cent; New Brunswick, 1.4 per cent. In Prince Edward Island there was no recovery of fish by-products in 1926. In all these provinces it is maintained that there are areas where further reduction plants might be profitable, notably in Prince Edward Island, northern British Columbia, including Queen Charlotte Island, and parts of New Brunswick, eastern Quebec and Nova Scotia. On both coasts it is believed there are great opportunities for building up and stabilizing the fish by-products industries through the taking of non-edible fish for reduction purposes. The dogfish and shark should be exploited, not only as a source of revenue but as a measure of conservation to rid the fishing waters of these natural foes of the valuable food fishes which are an increasing source of wealth to Canada.
